Senior Care and Services Joaquin Jay Gonzalez III, Roger L. Kemp, Willie Lee Britt, 2020-04-16 There are more senior citizens in the U S today than ever before Public services for seniors are rapidly changing and expanding as this diverse population ages This collection of essays describes key developments in services being provided in cities across the nation Topics include seniors and the U S government health and wellness longevity caregiving housing and accommodations Social Security and finance immigrant minority and LGBT issues and life long learning and technology

Ready for Ageing? Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: Select Committee on Public Service and Demographic Change, 2013-03-14 The report Ready For Ageing HL 140 investigates the outcomes of a 50% rise in the number of people aged over 65 and a 100% increase in those aged over 85 expected to occur in England between 2010 and 2030 An ageing society will greatly increase the number of people with long term health conditions and health and social care services will need a radically different model of care to support them The Committee recommends that the Government publish a White Paper before the next general election setting out how our society needs to prepare for a longer life and establish two cross party commissions to respond to the ageing society One would work with employers and financial services providers to improve pensions savings and equity release the other would analyse how the health and social care system and its funding should change to serve the needs of our ageing population To help address a worsening of the problem of insufficient savings and pensi Universal Coverage of Long-Term Care in the United States Douglas A. Wolfe,Nancy Folbre,2012-09-01 As millions of baby boomers retire and age in the coming years more American families will confront difficult choices about the long term care of their loved ones The swelling ranks of the disabled and elderly who need such care including home care adult day care or a nursing home stay are faced with a strained inequitable and expensive system How will American society and policy adapt to this demographic transition In Universal Coverage of Long Term Care in the United States editors Nancy Folbre and Douglas Wolf and an expert group of care researchers assess the current U S long term care policies and exercise what can be learned from other countries facing similar care demands After the high profile suspension of the Obama Administration s public long term insurance program in 2011 Robert Hudson and Howard Gleckman provide concrete suggestions for lowering the cost and improving the quality of long term care coverage in America In a deeply personal and empirically rigorous analysis family care expert Carol Levine draws crucial lessons from her experience as a caregiver for her ailing husband She sheds light on the often fraught interactions that occur between the formal care system and family caregivers and analyzes how public policy can best support long term family care The volume next examines recent reforms in other developed countries and finds valuable lessons for American policy makers Contributors David Bell and Alison Bowes discuss the provision of personal care services in Scotland which have been publicly financed since 2002 Their analysis shows that the new program reduced costs improved efficiency and allowed more recipients to receive care The volume assesses the political and institutional prospects for moving towards a truly universal long term care system in the United States Robyn Stone provides a sobering overview of the formal paid long term care workforce in America which is in crisis due to increasing demand and a shortage of qualified workers Economist Leonard Burman focuses on public finances of the long term care system which will come under increasing strain as more Americans rely on Medicaid to pay for their long term care In the volume s concluding chapter Folbre and Wolf summarize criticisms of existing long term care policies and outline particular reforms that can move the United States toward a universal system of long term care insurance Universal Coverage of Long Term Care in the United States provides an essential resource on how to improve the long term care sector in America and helps advance the national debate on this pressing topic This volume is available for free download on the Foundation s website as are the volume s individual chapters Ensuring Regulations Protect Access to Affordable and Quality Companion Care United States. and Education, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Forum on Aging, Disability, and Independence, 2015-08-04 Individuals with disabilities chronic conditions and functional impairments need a range of services and supports to keep living independently However there often is not a strong link between medical care provided in the home and the necessary social services and supports for independent living Home health agencies and others are rising to the challenges of meeting the needs and demands of these populations to stay at home by exploring alternative models of care and payment approaches the best use of their workforces and technologies that can enhance independent living All of these challenges and opportunities lead to the consideration of how home health care fits into the future health care system overall On September 30 and October 1 2014 the Institute of Medicine and the National Research Council convened a public workshop on the future of home health care The workshop brought together a spectrum of public and private stakeholders and thought leaders to improve understanding of the current role of Medicare home health care in supporting aging in place and in helping high risk chronically ill and disabled Americans receive health care in their communities Through presentations and discussion participants explored the evolving role of Medicare home health care in caring for Americans in the future including how to integrate Medicare home health care into new models for the delivery of care and the future health care marketplace The workshop also considered the key policy reforms and investments in workforces technologies and research needed to leverage the value of home health care to support older Americans and research priorities that can help clarify the value of home health care This summary captures important points raised by the individual speakers and workshop participants

Options in Long-term Care United States. Congress. Pepper Commission, 1990 Forced to Care Evelyn Nakano Glenn, 2012-03-05 The United States faces a growing crisis in care The number of people needing care is growing while the ranks of traditional caregivers have shrunk The status of care workers is a critical concern Evelyn Nakano Glenn offers an innovative interpretation of care labor in the United States by tracing the roots of inequity along two interconnected strands unpaid caring within the family and slavery indenture and other forms of coerced labor By bringing both into the same analytic framework she provides a convincing explanation of the devaluation of care work and the exclusion of both unpaid and paid care workers from critical rights such as minimum wage retirement benefits and workers compensation Glenn reveals how assumptions about gender family home civilization and citizenship have shaped the development of care labor and been incorporated into law and social policies She exposes the underlying systems of control that have resulted in women especially immigrants and women of color performing a disproportionate share of caring labor Finally she examines strategies for improving the situation of unpaid family caregivers and paid home healthcare workers This important and timely book illuminates the source of contradictions between American beliefs about the value and importance of caring in a good society and the exploitation and devalued status of those who actually do the caring Risk Management in

What Older Americans Think Christine L. Day, 2014-07-14 As the much publicized graying of America progresses political groups that lobby for the elderly have achieved enormous power and organizational success with no sign of decline in the foreseeable future What Older Americans Think provides a fresh look at these groups Are older people united in support of increasing old age benefits or perhaps even obsessed with their own financial self interest as is sometimes alleged Do younger people tend to oppose old age benefits Why do aging based political organizations attract so many members How do Washington policymakers see the gray lobby Focusing on the last decade Christine Day offers new answers to these and other questions Drawing on survey data and interviews with organization leaders congressional staff and executive branch employees Day presents an objective rather than an impressionistic view Her findings dispel the myth that older people agree in a desire to receive expanded government benefits they are no more likely than younger people to support more federal spending on the elderly or to consider aging policy a highly salient issue Day also reveals that while older people have become wealthier as a group they have also become economically more diverse Old age interest groups have little control over the degree of inequality between the rich and the poor Originally published in 1990 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Shaping Long-Term Care in Emerging Asia Vasoontara S. Yiengprugsawan, John Piggott, 2022-12-15 Countries are facing increasing life expectancy and a shrinking family size and in effect this may escalate demands for medical and supportive services The role of families in providing informal care will remain important However the simultaneous decline in the supply of informal caregiving caused by changes in family structure and higher female labour market participation necessitate the expansion of the public role in care provision This book analyses the challenges of long term care LTC policy development and implications from advanced LTC systems and a current trajectory in emerging economies in Asia The book approaches the subject through comparative analysis on what works and what does not to provide insight into public policy options for sustainable LTC provision and financing mechanisms How the countries adopt different approaches to health and social systems towards LTC development could provide important insight and perspectives into policy options in the region This book aims at academics policymakers and practitioners in health social and aged care services and could also be used as a teaching resource for undergraduate students in health and social sciences and postgraduate programs in public health epidemiology social demography gerontology and nursing The book will be of interest to a wider audience not only on social and health consequences of population ageing but also health and social policy relating to older persons
