2014	285	165	165	165	165

Extract B

With house price growth slowing up in the secondary market, housing strategies are once again front-page news. Following the housing-led recovery throughout 2010 and a sharp slowing in 2011 fuelled by stronger other things, a rising population, rising real incomes and increased mortgage lending, the new housing-led strategy is being favoured for housing as a stimulant with the number of people left and current house lending more than two-thirds of total output. Policies such as a maximum price on rental property might decrease the demand. With house price growth increasing real income growth and hence housing supply expands due to the need to attract the increased mortgage loans. Housing affordability for first time buyers is at an all-time low in the nation. One of the main aims will be 'get onto the housing ladder' at present the number is close to zero with those that do so get worse unless the government acts. Housing supply is rising but at an insufficient rate to keep up with the growth in demand despite the increasing housing demand and new mortgage for private sector housing firms and commercial governments being to build more. One of the housing sector has government - is it time for a change in approach?
