Quinn,2011 The principal goal of the dissertation is to explain the political nature and effect of cultural characterizations on the development of student assignment policy Cultural characterizations are socially constructed portrayals that become influential when stakeholders mobilize to bring about change In education as the professional authority of school boards and superintendents diminishes community stakeholders are increasingly prominent They serve as critical producers and providers of cultural characterizations of public education and its beneficiaries As such the engagement of community stakeholders with public sector institutions organizations and individuals can significantly amplify modify or blunt education policy The dissertation traces the history of community mobilization in San Francisco from 1971 to 2005 during which the federal district court supervised all aspects of the school district's student assignment policy. Cultural characterizations of student assignment were structured by three distinct logics of action: integration, choice, and neighborhood. These logics were stable but not fixed. Changes in the institutional environment coupled with how stakeholders framed, understood, and shaped these logics led to transformations in student assignment policy that ultimately altered the educational experience of multiple generations of public school students. Data are drawn primarily from archival documents from the federal district court, the school district, and community organizations; mainstream and community newspaper articles; letters to the editor and editorials; and retrospective interviews with key stakeholders.

Practical Aspects of Declarative Languages Paul Hudak, David S. Warren, 2007-12-20 This book, complete with online files and updates, covers a hugely important area of study in computing. It constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 10th International Symposium on Practical Aspects of Declarative Languages (PADL 2008) held in San Francisco, CA, USA, in January 2008. The 20 revised full papers, along with the abstract of 1 invited talk, were carefully reviewed and selected from 44 submissions. The papers address all current aspects of declarative programming.

New Directions Peter Gardner, 2005-01-17 New Directions is a thematic reading/writing book aimed at the most advanced learners. It prepares students for the rigors of college-level writing by having them read long, challenging authentic readings from a variety of genres and by having them apply critical thinking skills as a precursor to writing. This emphasis on multiple longer readings gives New Directions its distinctive character.

Femininity, Mathematics and Science, 1880-1914 C. Jones, 2009-10-15 Through the prism of gender, this text explores the contrasting cultures and practice of mathematics and science and asks how they impacted on women. Claire Jones assesses nineteenth-century ideas about women's intellect, femininity, and masculinity and assesses how these attitudes shaped women's experiences as students and practitioners.
