Abstract. The increasing number of US-born Hispanics living in the United States has led to a growing demand for health care services. The US health care system has been slow to respond to this demand. This article discusses the challenges facing the US health care system in meeting the needs of the Hispanic population. It also discusses the role of the health care provider in addressing these challenges.

1. The first step is to identify the problem. This involves understanding the current situation and what needs to be changed.

Abstract

Introduction

- The first part of the presentation is a general overview of the project.
- The second part is a detailed description of the methodology used.
- The third part is a presentation of the results obtained.
- The fourth part is a discussion of the results and their implications.
- The fifth part is a conclusion and a list of references.
