Understanding Nature Louise M. Weber,2023-05-16 Understanding Nature is a new kind of ecology textbook a straightforward resource that teaches natural history and ecological content and a way to instruct students that will nurture both Earth and self While meeting the textbook guidelines set forth by the Ecological Society of America Understanding Nature has a unique ecotherapy theme using a historical framework to teach ecological theory to undergraduates This textbook presents all the core information without being unnecessarily wordy or lengthy using simple relatable language and discussing ecology in ways that any student can apply in real life Uniquely it is also a manual on how to improve one s relationship with the Earth This is accomplished through coverage of natural history ecology and applications together with suggested field activities that start each chapter and thinking questions that end each chapter The book includes traditional ecological knowledge as well as the history of scientific ecological knowledge Understanding Nature teaches theory and applications that will heal the Earth It also teaches long term sustainability practices for one s psyche Professor Louise Weber is both an ecologist and a certified ecopsychologist challenging ecology instructors to rethink what and how they teach about nature Her book bridges the gap between students taking ecology to become ecologists and those taking ecology as a requirement who will use the knowledge to become informed citizens     Woodland Survey Handbook Keith

Kirby,Jeanette Hall,2019-05-02 How do you record the wildlife in a wood This book explains ways to record the flora and fauna found in woodland and outlines the sources you can use to find out more about the history and management of an area Whether you have just a few hours or a few years there are examples that you can follow to find out more about this important habitat Woods include some of the richest terrestrial wildlife sites in Britain but some are under threat and many are neglected such that they are not as rich as they might be If we are to protect them or increase their diversity we need first to know what species they contain how they have come to be as they are to understand how they fit into the wider landscape Conservation surveys are the bedrock on which subsequent protection and management action is based There is not one method that will be right for all situations and needs so the methods discussed range from what one can find out online to what can be seen on a general walk round a wood to the insights that can come from more detailed survey and monitoring approaches Fast evolving techniques such as eDNA surveys and the use of LiDAR are touched on     Woodland

Development George Peterken, Edward Mountford, 2017-08-23 In 1944 Lady Park Wood 45 hectares of woodland in Gloucestershire and Monmouthshire UK was set aside indefinitely by the Forestry Commission so that ecologists could study how woodland develops naturally Since then in a unique long term study individual trees and shrubs have been recorded at intervals accumulating a detailed record of more than 20 000 individual beech sessile oak ash wych elm small leaved lime large leaved lime birch hazel yew and other species In the seven decades since the study started the wood has changed trees grew died and regenerated and drought disease and other events shaped its destiny Each tree and shrub species reacted in its own way to changes in the wood as a whole and to changes in the fortunes of its neighbours Meanwhile the wild fauna flora and fungi also responded leaving the wood richer in some groups but poorer in others In this landmark book beautifully illustrated throughout George Peterken and Edward Mountford summarise the ongoing results of the Lady Park Wood study highlighting its unique place in nature conservation and its significance to ecology in general It also builds on experience at Lady Park Wood and elsewhere to discuss in particular the role and maintenance of long term ecological studies the concept and form of natural woodland the role of minimum intervention policies in woodland nature conservation near to nature forestry and the desirability and practicalities of re wilding woodlands

Lake Biwa: Interactions between Nature and People Hiroya Kawanabe, Machiko Nishino, Masayoshi Maehata, 2020-08-25 Although the first edition had a similar focus more than five years have passed since its publication and the biological and social circumstances of the lake have drastically changed due to for example the further expansion of alien species the decrease of indigenous species the progress of integrated watershed management by the Union of the Kansai Government which was established in 2010 the legislation of the Conservation and Restoration Act of Lake Biwa in 2015 and more The new edition will therefore feature updated and new information on the above and more topics as well as updated and revised data based on the latest research Inventories of respective taxa especially those of small animals are also revised based on the latest studies Furthermore this volume covers the characteristics of the biota of this ancient lake but at the same time it will also approach it as a culture ancient lake Other topics also include water pollution lakeshore development the effects of global warming in the past and present the influence of people and countermeasures by local and national governments Moreover the volume also provides a comprehensive view on the future of Lake Biwa and that of its residents Miraculously enough this ancient lake has kept its water quality clear even until today despite the fact of more than 1 4 million people living on its shores Finally the book also gives indispensable information to those engaged in improving and conserving water regimes of lakes and other water bodies all over the world and to those interested in the culture and history of Japan Lake Biwa is not only one of the rarest ancient lakes of the world but the people's involvement with the lake also goes back a long way This is shown in the diverse culture developed in this area and in the various archaeological finds that date back as early as the Jomon Period nearly 10 000 years ago Today Lake Biwa fulfills an important role as a water resource by providing domestic commercial industrial and agricultural water for over 14 million residents living around the Lake Biwa Yodo River drainage basin This updated volume focuses on the geological and biological features of the lake as well as on the long term interactions between the people and the lake
