Teaching and Learning History Online Stephen K. Stein, Maureen MacLeod, 2023-04-17 Teaching and Learning History Online A Guide for College Instructors offers everything a new online history instructor needs in one package including how to structure courses integrate multimedia and manage and grade discussions as well as advice for department chairs on curriculum management student advising and more In today's technological society online courses are quickly becoming the new normal in terms of collegiate instruction providing the ideal environment to flip the classroom and encourage students to hone critical thinking skills by engaging deeply with historical sources While much of the attention in online teaching focuses on STEM business and education courses online history courses have also proven consistently popular However due to the COVID 19 pandemic new history instructors are rushed into online teaching with little or no training or experience creating a need for a guide to ease the transition from classroom to online course development and teaching A timely text this book aims to provide both new and experienced college history teachers the information they need to develop dynamic online courses The New Politics of the Textbook Heather Hickman, Brad J. Porfilio, 2012-10-13 In an age of unprecedented corporate and political control over life inside of educational institutions this book provides a needed intervention to investigate how the economic and political elite use traditional artifacts in K 16 schools to perpetuate their interests at the expense of minoritized social groups The contributors provide a comprehensive examination of how textbooks the most dominant cultural force in which corporations and political leaders impact the schooling curricula shape students thoughts and behavior perpetuate power in dominant groups and trivialize social groups who are oppressed on the structural axes of race class gender sexuality and disability Several contributors also generate critical insight in how power shapes the production of textbooks and evaluate whether textbooks still perpetuate dominant Western narratives that normalize and privilege patriotism militarism consumerism White supremacy heterosexism rugged individualism technology and a positivistic conception of the world Finally the book highlights several textbooks that challenge readers to rethink their stereotypical views of the Other to reflect upon the constitutive forces causing oppression in schools and in the wider society and to reflect upon how to challenge corporate and political dominance over knowledge production War, Nation, Memory Keith A. Crawford, Stuart J. Foster, 2007-12-01 The Second World War stands as the most devastating and destructive global conflict in human history More than 60 nations representing 1.7 billion people or three quarters of the world's population were consumed by its horror Not surprisingly therefore World War II stands as a landmark episode in history education throughout the world and its prominent place in school history textbooks is almost guaranteed As this book demonstrates however the stories that nations choose to tell their young about World War II do not represent a universally accepted truth about events during the war Rather wartime narratives contained in school textbooks typically are selected to instill in the young a sense of national pride common identity and shared collective memory To understand this process War Nation

Memory describes and evaluates school history textbooks from many nations deeply affected by World War II including China France Germany Japan USA and the United Kingdom It critically examines the very different and complex perspectives offered in many nations and analyses the ways in which textbooks commonly serve as instruments of socialisation and in some cases propaganda Above all War Nation Memory demonstrates that far from containing neutral knowledge history textbooks prove fascinating cultural artefacts consciously shaped and legitimated by powerful ideological cultural and sociopolitical forces dominant in the present
