state and in key respects has been so for many years The aim of this volume is therefore to take stock to try and capture what the current state of educational policy and practice is across the whole of the UK This has been achieved by commissioning two different papers from each of the four countries Wales Scotland Northern Ireland and England The first is an overview exploring the distinctive history principles and current policies of each country The second paper has been specifically chosen as a case study of a key policy that highlights the distinctiveness of each country the Foundation Phase for Wales assessment policy in Scotland shared education initiatives in Northern Ireland and higher education policy in England Taken together these eight papers give an important insight into the complexities of educational policy and practice across the whole of the UK today This volume was originally published as a special issue of Oxford Review of Education

2012 GCSE English results Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Education Committee, 2013-06-11 The 2012 GCSE English results prompted significant controversy which ultimately resulted in an application for judicial review This report sets out the background to these events and identifies lessons to be learned The problems with GCSE English can be traced back to the 2007/09 development phase of the qualification in particular the turbulence which resulted from the shift away from a mostly linear to a modular system combined with a high proportion of controlled assessment and generous marking tolerances Exam board experts raised concerns at the time but these were not acted upon by the regulator the then interim Ofqual Further difficulties arose because of pressures from the school accountability system The problems experienced with GCSE English in 2012 highlighted serious weaknesses in the moderation of speaking and listening with consequences for grade awarding The current status of Ofqual as an independent regulator accountable to Parliament is the right one However the Coalition Government is bringing in wholesale changes to GCSEs and A levels to a tight timetable and at the same time Ofqual must have systems in place The Committee is also concerned that there is a rush towards separate exam systems for England Wales and Northern Ireland without careful reflection on what might be lost or consensus that this is the right thing to do

How the World's Best Performing School Systems Come Out on Top It now seems more important than ever to highlight some alternatives that might contribute to a broader understanding of the meaning of being a teacher In a time of standardised performance and accountability this special issue raises critical questions about the space for teachers agency and teachers as curriculum agents The different articles from some of our most distinguished researchers in the field provide essential perspectives on the question of where when and how teachers matter Our interest is not primarily to understand the scope of teachers agency but rather to understand what becomes important for teachers in their everyday activities such as teaching students handling educational norms and rules working in a local as well as a global society etc A common theme throughout the articles is that teachers matter in spaces where they can act as moral subjects in their profession in the present drawing on collective and individual experiences of the past whilst imagining a desired future This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Curriculum Studies
