Public Intellectuals in South Africa Chris Broodryk, 2021-07-01 This edited collection gives voice to neglected public intellectuals in the arts humanities and journalism in South Africa who gave voice and presence to those who have been marginalized and silenced in South African history Edward Said described a public intellectual as someone who uses accessible language to address a designated public on matters of social and political significance The essays in Public Intellectuals in South Africa apply this interpretive prism and activist principle to a South African context and tell the stories of well known figures as well as some that have been mostly forgotten They include

Magema Fuze John Dube Aggrey Klaaste Mewa Ramgobin and Koos Roets alongside marginalized figures such as Elijah Makiwane Mandisi Sindo William Pretorius and Dr Thomas Duncan Greenlees The essays capture the thoughts and opinions of these historical figures who the contributors argue are public intellectuals who spoke out against the corruption of power promoted a progressive politics that challenged the colonial project and its legacies and encouraged a sustained dissent of the political status quo Offering fascinating accounts of the life and work of these writers critics and activists across a range of historical contexts and disciplines from journalism and arts criticism to history and politics it enriches the historical record of South African public intellectual life This volume makes a significant contribution to ongoing debates about the value of research in the arts and humanities and what constitutes public intellectualism in South Africa

Encyclopedia of Linguistics Philipp Strazny, 2013-02-01 Utilizing a historical and international approach this valuable two volume resource makes even the more complex linguistic issues understandable for the non specialized reader Containing over 500 alphabetically arranged entries and an expansive glossary by a team of international scholars the Encyclopedia of Linguistics explores the varied perspectives figures and methodologies that make up the field

Linguistic Atlas of South Africa Van der Merwe, I.J., Van der Merwe, J.H., 2007-02-01 This atlas maps various time space dimensions of South Africa's remarkable linguistic diversity to cast the geography of language within the conceptual framework of geolinguistics It shows how historical patterns of spatial language preponderance have developed to produce current patterns and allows understanding of the way landscape has become regionally ingrained in the vocabulary of languages Here language is cast as a barometer of the social dynamics processes of space and place spatial convergence regional competition expansion and dominance segregation and assimilation ethnicity social ecology language identity social interaction and migration trends

The Linguistic Landscape of Post-Apartheid South Africa Liesel Hibbert, 2016-06-24 The appointment of Nelson Mandela as President of South Africa in 1994 signalled the end of apartheid and transition to a new democratic constitution This book studies discursive trends during the first twenty years of the new democracy outlining the highlights and challenges of transforming policy practice and discursive formations The book analyses a range of discourses which signal how and by what processes the linguistic landscape and identities of South Africa's inhabitants have changed in this time finding that struggles in South African politics go hand in hand with shifts in the linguistic landscape In a country now characterised by multilingualism heteroglossia polyphony and translanguaging the author debates where the discourse practices of those born post 1994 may lead

Controlled Natural Language B. Davis, C.M. Keet, A. Wyner, 2018-09-12 Controlled natural languages CNLs are based on natural language and apply restrictions on vocabulary grammar and or semantics They fall broadly into 3 groups Some are designed to improve communication for non native speakers of the respective natural language in others the restrictions are to facilitate the use of computers to analyze texts for example to improve computer aided translation and a third group of CNLs are designed to enable reliable automated reasoning and formal knowledge representation from seemingly natural texts This book presents the 11 papers selected from 14 submitted and delivered at the sixth in the series of workshops on Controlled Natural Language CNL 2018 held in Maynooth Ireland in August 2018 The papers cover a full spectrum of controlled natural languages ranging from human oriented to machine processable controlled languages and from more theoretical results to interfaces reasoning engines and the real life application of CNLs The book will be of interest to all those working with controlled natural language whatever their approach

A Handbook on Legal Languages and the Quest for Linguistic Equality in South Africa and Beyond Zakeera Docrat, Russell H Kaschula, Monwabisi K Ralarala, 2021-06-02 A Handbook on Legal Languages and the Quest for Linguistic Equality in South Africa and Beyond is an interdisciplinary publication located in the discipline of forensic linguistics language and law This handbook includes varying comparative African and global case studies on the use of language s in courtroom discourse and higher education institutions Kenya Morocco Nigeria Australia Belgium Canada and India These African and global case studies form the backdrop for the critique of the monolingual English language of record policy for South African courts the core of this handbook discussed in relation to case law and the beleaguered legal interpretation profession This handbook argues that linguistic transformation and decolonisation of South Africa s legal and higher education systems needs to be undertaken where legal practitioners are linguistically equipped to litigate in a bilingual multilingual courtroom that enables access to justice for the majority of African language speaking litigants enforcing their constitutional language rights

A Socio-economic Atlas of South Africa Nick Tait, 1996 This atlas presents a set of demographic socio economic and cultural profiles of South Africa in a clear and easily understandable format

Gogo's Song David R. Donald, 2012-09-28 It is often interesting to know why an author chose to write a particular story First in order for me to explain this reason I need to tell you a little about my background I have worked as a teacher then as a child psychologist in schools and finally as a lecturer and professor of Educational Psychology in universities It is only since my retirement some twelve years ago that I had the time to start writing stories for both young children and older adolescents Because of my professional background and particular interest in reading development all my published short stories and novels have an underlying purpose And that purpose is to bring to young people reading material that is not only interesting and that they can relate to their personal lives but also carries with it something that could be useful in their psychological development All of my three novels in this Xlibris Corporation series see the relevant titles of the other two novels below have an underlying developmental theme and purpose And this is to provide stories that I hope may help young people deal with the painful feelings and practical difficulties that always have to be faced when someone has lost a loved one Perhaps even more important each of the stories also tells in its own way how the main character overcomes and rises above his or her grief and difficulties In each case this recovery comes not only from the help and support of one or more friends relatives neighbours and teachers but also significantly from the determination and courage of each of the main characters In order to help you relate these important elements to your own life and perhaps to the lives of other young people whom you may know I have added two short sections at the end of each book The first provides you with a number of Questions to think about and the second with a few carefully chosen Activities for you to undertake Even though it may take a little effort please follow through on both of the above elements as they will most definitely help you get the most out of each story Second I believe that an author of any fictional story needs to be personally familiar with the place as well as the language and culture of the people who live there Without this element the story will simply not feel authentic or real to any reader wherever they happen to live in the world My hope again is that this will be true for you In each of my three novels I have a list at the end of the novel of the English translations and a guide to the pronunciation of those important names words and phrases in the indigenous languages that I have chosen to use in the respective novels I think this may contribute to the authenticity of the stories as you read them I hope so The titles of my other two novels in this Xlibris Corporation series are I am Thabeka and Woza Thabo

Opening the Cage Ole Skovsmose, Brian Greer, 2012-09-05 The picture on the front of this book is an illustration for Totakahini The tale of the parrot by Rabindranath Tagore in which he satirized education as a magnificent golden cage Opening the cage addresses mathematics education as a complex socio political phenomenon exploring the vast terrain that spans critique and politics Opening the cage includes contributions from educators writing critically about mathematics education in diverse contexts They demonstrate that mathematics education is politics they investigate borderland positions they address the nexus of mathematics education and power and they explore educational possibilities Mathematics education is not a free enterprise It is carried on behind bars created by economic political and social demands This cage might not be as magnificent as that in Tagore's fable But it is strong Opening the cage is a critical and political challenge and we may be surprised to see what emerges

Speaking Subjects in Multilingualism Research Judith Purkarthofer, Mi-Cha Flubacher, 2022-07-22 This book discusses salient moments of multilingual encounters and brings together contributions focused on the interplay between language use by individuals and societies and language related inequalities or opportunities for speakers The chapters demonstrate how biographical and speaker centred approaches can contribute to an understanding of linguistic diversity how researchers can empirically account for lived experiences of languages and how such accounts are embedded in a larger discussion on social inequality Together the chapters make a powerful case for the importance of speaker centred methodologies in multilingual and multilingualism research The book is a rich source of theoretical and methodological reflections and will thus be a valuable resource for both experienced researchers and students beginning to explore biographical research methods Eating from One Pot Sarah

Mosoetsa,2011-04-01 As poverty and unemployment deepen in contemporary South Africa the burning question becomes how do the poor survive Eating from One Pot provides a compelling answer Based on intensive fieldwork it shows how many African households are on the brink of collapse That they keep going at all can largely be attributed to the struggles of older women against poverty They are the fulcrum on which household survival turns This book describes how households in two different areas in KwaZulu Natal are sites of both stability and conflict As one of the interviewees put it We eat from one pot and should always help each other Yet the stability of family networks is becoming fragile because of the enormous burden placed on them by unemployment and unequal power relations Through careful analysis the experiences of survival are discussed in relation to the restructuring of the country's welfare and social policies and the extension of social grants

Mosoetsa argues that these policies shape the livelihoods that people pursue in order to survive under desperate conditions but fail to address the root causes of poverty and inequality Focus on First Year Success Brenda Leibowitz,Antoinette

Van der Merwe,Susan Van Schalkwyk,2009-11-01 The importance of the first year experience is now well recognised This collection of papers makes a fascinating and important contribution to our understanding of students transition to higher education This is a scholarly engaging and illuminating text that is relevant not only in the context of South Africa but for anyone interested in student learning in the first year of university education David Gosling Plymouth University Primary

Education in Crisis Brahm Fleisch,2008 In the past decade the national preoccupation has been on the crisis in secondary schools Lurking behind the intractable problem of low pass rates the dysfunctional schools and the small number of higher grade mathematics and science graduates is the calamity in primary education Drawing on the work of researchers in a range of fields including psychology sociology anthropology linguistics economics the health sciences and mathematics education this book documents the depth and scope of the primary education crisis and provides a comprehensive and rigorous explanation of its causes Primary education in crisis pulls together the wealth of research on health poverty resources language and teaching as factors in academic achievement in reading writing and mathematics At the centre of the book is an analysis of the published studies that systematically document what teachers teach and fail to teach and why it is that teaching is at the heart of the crisis in primary education The author suggests that there are no quick fixes but only hard choices and that for reform to succeed it must be evidence based Language and Institutional Identity in the

between education identity formation and language in post apartheid South Africa with specific attention to higher education It does so against the backdrop of the core argument that the sector plays a critical role in shaping re producing and perpetuating sectoral class sub national and national identities which in turn in the peculiar South African setting are almost invariably analogous with the historical fault lines determined and dictated by language as a marker of ethnic and racial identity The chapters in the book grapple with the nuances related to these intersections in the understanding that higher education language policies overt and or covert largely structure institutional cultures or what has been described as curriculum in higher education institutions Together the chapters examine the roles played by higher education by language policies and by the intersections of these policies and ethnolinguistic identities in either constructing and perpetuating or deconstructing ethnolinguistic identities upon which the sector was founded The introductory chapter lays out the background to the entire book with an emphasis on the policy and practice perspectives on the intersections The middle chapters describe the so called White Universities Black Universities and Middle Man Minorities Universities The final chapter maps out future directions of the discourses on language and identity formation in South Africa s higher education

Multilingual classroom contexts Prof Christa van der Walt, Dr Verbra Pfeiffer, 2021-12-01 By far the majority of South African students get their schooling in a second language which means that our classrooms are multilingual This state of affairs is not exclusive to our country as can be seen in the many academic conferences on multilingual learning and teaching Terms like translanguaging and biliteracy appear in many articles and books that discuss the role language in education What makes the multilingual nature of our South African classrooms challenging is the fact that many learners switch from one language of learning and teaching to another at various points in their school career from home language to English or Afrikaans after the foundation phase from one language of learning and teaching to another when they move to new schools high school or tertiary institutions This book is an attempt to highlight the transitions from home to school from foundation to intermediate phase from primary to high school and from high school to tertiary institutions

Indigenous Teaching Disciplines and Perspectives for Higher Education Kgari-Masondo, Maserole Christina, 2025-03-28 Literature indicates that sociolinguists and educationists often claim multilingual practice and Africanizing and Indigenizing education will jeopardize national unity and social cohesion Such claims delay the implementation of decolonization policies and the transformation of the curriculum under false assumptions However research reveals many Indigenous students struggle with higher educational content which is often presented through languages that are unfamiliar to them This implies that there is a need to uncover resources that can assist in necessitating the implementation of Indigenous education globally and that all multilingual strategies in education must be based on quality mother tongue illustrative content as its foundation As a result further research on the subject is necessary to enhance teaching strategies that reach all Indigenous students Indigenous Teaching Disciplines and Perspectives for Higher Education illustrates the need for the implementation of a decolonized teaching and learning curriculum with integrated resources as models It explores how to improve Indigenous knowledge content and teaching methods Covering topics such as cultural identity African research methodology and Indigenous media this book is an excellent resource for teachers policymakers school administrators researchers scholars academicians and more
