

We have, all of us, an impulse to improve ourselves, an impulse toward actualizing more of our potentialities, toward self-actualization, or full humanness or human fulfillment, or whatever term you like. Granted this, then what holds us up? What blocks us?

One such defense against growth that I'd like to speak about specially—because it hasn't been noticed much—I shall call the Jonah complex.

In my own notes I had at first labeled this defense the "fear of one's own greatness" or the "evasion of one's destiny" or the "running away from one's own best talents." I had wanted to stress as bluntly and sharply as I could the non-Freudian point that we fear our best as well as our worst, even though in different ways. It is certainly possible for most of us to be greater than we are in actuality. We all have unused potentialities or not fully developed ones. It is certainly true that many of us evade our constitutionally suggested vocations (call, destiny, task in life, mission). So often we run away from the responsibilities dictated (or rather suggested) by nature, by fate, even sometimes by accident, just as Jonah tried—in vain—to run away from his fate.

We fear our highest possibilities (as well as our lowest ones). We are generally afraid to become that which we can glimpse in our most perfect moments, under the most perfect conditions, under conditions of greatest courage. We enjoy and even thrill to the godlike possibilities we see in ourselves in such peak moments. And yet we simultaneously shiver with weakness, awe, and fear before these very same possibilities.

The Limits Of Science Nicholas Rescher,2014-08-12 Perfected science is but an idealization that provides a useful contrast to highlight the limited character of what we do and can attain This lies at the core of various debates in the philosophy of science and Rescher s discussion focuses on the question how far could science go in principle what are the theoretical limits on science He concentrates on what science can discover not what it should discover He explores in detail the existence of limits or limitations on scientific inquiry especially those that in principle preclude the full realization of the aims of science as opposed to those that relate to economic obstacles to scientific progress Rescher also places his argument within the politics of the day where strident calls of ideological extremes surround us ranging from the exaggeration that science can do anything to the antisocialism that views science as a costly diversion we would be well advised to abandon Rescher offers a middle path between these two extremes and provides an appreciation of the actual powers and limitations of science not only to philosophers of science but also to a larger less specialized audience

The Politics of Justifying Force Charlotte Peevers, 2013-11-07 What are the politics involved in a government justifying its use of military force abroad What is the role of international law in that discourse How and why is international law crucial to this process And what role does the media have in mediating the interaction of international law and politics This book provides a fresh and engaging answer to these questions It introduces different actors to the study of international law in this context in particular highlighting the importance of institutional actors and the role of the media It takes a theoretical approach informed by detailed empirical analysis of key case studies which challenges the traditional distinction between the spheres of the international and the domestic in global affairs and the role of international law in the making of public policy The book specifically critiques the idea of the politics of justification which argues that deploying international legal norms to justify governmental decisions resulting in the use of force necessarily constrains government actions and leads to fewer instances of military intervention The politics of justification on this account can be seen as a progressive practice through which international law can become embedded in domestic societies The book investigates the actors engaged in this justification and the institutional contexts within which legal justification is articulated interpreted and contested It provides a rich detailed account of domestic British discourse in the crucial case studies of the Suez Crisis of 1956 and the Iraq War of 2003 making extensive use of archival material newspaper and television reporting Parliamentary debates polling data personal memoirs and the declassified material provided to several Public Inquiries including the Chilcot Inquiry In light of these sources it considers the concept of international law as a language and form of communication rather than a set of abstract norms It argues that a detailed understanding of how that language is deployed both in private and in public is essential to gaining a deeper understanding of the role of international law in domestic politics This book will be illuminating reading for scholars and students the use of force in international law historians and media theorists Exploring Central Bank Digital Currencies: Concepts, Frameworks, Models, and Challenges Kaur, Guneet, Lekhi, Pooja, Popli, Simriti, 2024-03-07

Lewis, 2015-06-12

In the wake of the 2003 General Convention approval of the consecration of Gene Robinson an openly gay and partnered man to be a bishop the Convention of the Diocese of Pittsburgh took steps to secede from the Episcopal Church When it became clear that by rewriting and reinterpreting the canons the Diocese deemed itself entitled to the assets of the Diocese the Rector and Vestry of Calvary Church Pittsburgh took the unprecedented and as it turned out successful action of challenging these actions in civil court by suing the bishop and other officers of the Diocese The Recent Unpleasantness tells the story of the circumstances in church and society that long predated Robinson s election which set the stage for these developments and discusses the ramifications of the lawsuit in the Diocese of Pittsburgh the Episcopal Church and throughout the Anglican Communion It is an intriguing tale of the interface of bishops and archbishops prelates and primates synods and standing committees and addresses issues surrounding the challenges and costs of rebuilding a church by schisms rent asunder by heresies distressed

The Fiddlehead Moment Tony Tremblay, 2019-12-05 For many Canadians the small province of New Brunswick on Canada s scenic east coast is a nice place to visit but no place to live plagued for generations by outmigration and economic stagnation In The Fiddlehead Moment Tony Tremblay challenges this potent stereotype by showcasing the work of a group of literary modernists who set out to change the meaning of New Brunswick in the national lexicon Alfred Bailey Desmond Pacey Fred Cogswell and a formidable group of local poets and cultural workers collectively New Brunswick s Fiddlehead

School sought to restore New Brunswick's literary reputation by adapting avant garde modernist practices to the contours of the province opening it to the contemporary world while also encouraging writers to make it their subject The result was a non urban form of modernism that was as responsive to technical innovation as to the human geographies of New Brunswick By placing New Brunswick writers and critics at the forefront of Canadian literature in the midcentury modernist project Tremblay adds an important new chapter to our understanding of Canadian modernism The Fiddlehead Moment is the first critical examination of this group's considerable influence Whether through Bailey's ethnomethodology Pacey's critical ordering or Cogswell's editorial eclecticism in the Fiddlehead magazine and Fiddlehead Poetry Books authors in New Brunswick Tremblay argues had a profound impact on writing in Canada
