well suited to most people's general transport needs. Despite this, their adoption at a large scale has been grindingly slow. What are the reasons for this? Unlike most books which focus on the technical aspects of EV performance, this guide sets out the commercial and political barriers to their increased use and lays out the ways in which these barriers can be overcome. It begins by charting the rise of the internal combustion engine and detailing the problems associated with it, which are driving efforts to electrify transportation. It goes on to introduce readers to the main EV technologies and examines the key issue of energy storage and recharging infrastructure. The remaining chapters explore the cost effectiveness of electric mobility, the differing adoption trajectories by which EVs may come to increase in prominence, and the way in which policy can be tailored to encourage this rise. The book covers industrialized and emerging economy contexts, the latter of which have the greatest opportunities and most urgent need to take the EV development route. Requiring no specialist engineering knowledge to understand and written in an engaging, accessible style, this is a valuable primer and resource for people in business, policy, or study who are keen to understand, encourage, and capitalize on the transition to electric mobility. Time, 2009 Do More Faster Brad Feld, David G. urban as we experience it everyday on the bus in the park or between buildings It is about the big orchestrated mass migration of commuters the seasonal blossoms of the trees along the walkway and the frequency of the stamping rubbish eater trucks It is also not to forget about climate infrastructure opening hours term times parking meters time tables growing shadows and moon light But most of all it is about how all this is experienced by citizens on a daily basis and how they navigate within this complex structure of patterns The content of this book is based on the content of the urbanTick blog between 2008 2010 One year blogging about this topic brought together a large collection of different aspects and thoughts It is not at all a conclusive view the opposite might be the case it is an exploratory work in progress while trying to capture as many facets of the topic as possible
