ASSEMBLY, OPERATION and REPAIR PARTS MANUAL "HUMMIN' BIRD"

Assembly

After removing the "Hummin' Bird" cultivator from the carton, the handles are mounted and adjusted to suit the operator's height. The adjustment may be critical and it may be necessary to mount handles for easier operation after an examination.

Engine

Be sure to put oil in the crankcase and gasoline in the tank before trying to start engine. Before crankcase adjustment is engine started. The oil that comes out of the tank should be changed when the engine is started for the first time. (Do not use engine above 3000 R. P. M.)

It is most important that the operator should not put the unit too fast but should be sure that the starting rope is a horizontal plane. Do not try to pull rope unless you are using a retractable starter motor. All these things should be done to show the user the operation quickly and easily.

Ball Adjustment

The ball tension may be increased by loosening the cap screws in engine deck plate 211 and 212 with screwdriver. tension may be brought up by going between frames 211 and 212, tightening cap screws with nut and washers as shown.

The ball tension may be increased or decreased in relation to cultivator lines 1 to 4, by loosening carriage bolts and sliding the assembly up or down to adjust part 2714. To average garden soil, the ball tension light in the day for maximum depth of cultivation. In heavy garden soil, special deepening disc can be supplied for best results.

Chain Adjustment

The chain may be adjusted by loosening bolts and sliding bearing part 271 to size.

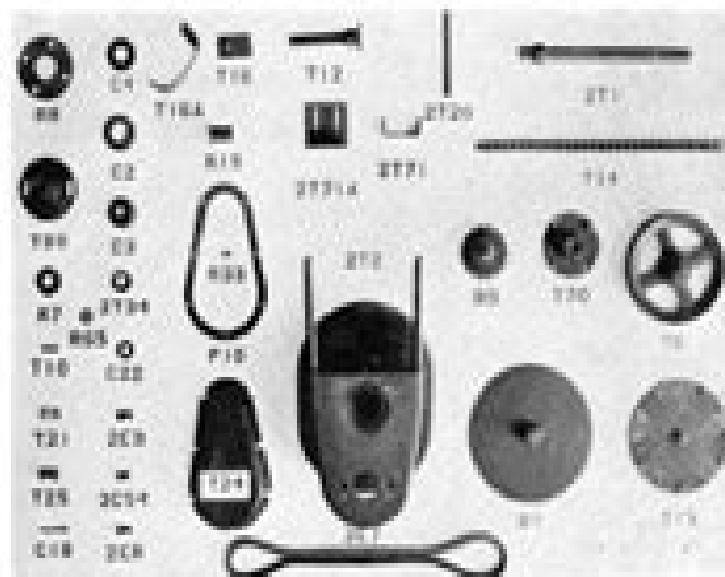

Lubrication

The tension quickly shifts is pushed with wheel bearing grease and should last the life of the unit. Lubrication of the chain is done by the addition of chain lubricant and under normal operating conditions should last for at least two years before cleaning parts and putting in fresh lubricant. The oil level in the engine, when it is in the engine, should be checked carefully and under any conditions changed every eight hours.

Operation of the "Hummin' Bird"

The "Hummin' Bird" cultivator was designed to be used both pushing forward or pulling backward. If it is desired to cultivate deeply and prepare a good bed for a small garden, we suggest that the operator hold the handles in a sufficiently forward position so as to push the machine forward and straight away from him or her as much as possible. That is to say that if you are trying to push forward and ahead at the same time, the cultivation is not as good as when you are pushing work. For maximum depth in any soil and best preparation, practically all the weight of the machine can be placed on the disc, pulling the machine backward. Of course you will want to go into the ground more than once to get more depth.

In cultivating around certain plants, it is possible to start the work along the side and stop the engine, also there will be times when a plant will touch the gasoline control and either stop or speed up the engine. This is under normal operating conditions, but you may experience such conditions.
