

The background of the book cover is a dark, deep blue or black. It features a complex, artistic representation of magnetic field lines. These lines are depicted as thin, flowing ribbons of light. On the left side, a bright, glowing yellow sphere, resembling a star or a distant planet, emits a soft, diffused light. From the center-right of the image, a dense cluster of magnetic field lines emerges. These lines are colored in a gradient, with the innermost lines being a bright, fiery orange and yellow, transitioning through red and purple to a deep blue as they extend outwards. The lines curve and swirl in a dynamic, almost chaotic pattern, filling the right half of the cover. The overall effect is one of scientific wonder and the invisible forces of electromagnetism.
