The Ethics of Business in a Global Economy P.M. Minus, 2013-03-14 Paul M Minus Overview The papers gathered in this volume were first presented for reflection and discussion at a landmark event in March 1992 The International Conference on the Ethics of Business in a Global Economy held in Columbus Ohio brought together over 300 participants from twenty two nations in six continents This was the most geographically diverse body of leaders ever assembled to consider issues of ethics in business Approximately two thirds of them were business executives the others came mainly from the fields of education and religion Knowing the context from which this book emerged will help readers understand its composition and content As can be quickly seen the fourteen authors who have contributed to it come from different areas of the world and from different fields of endeavor One finds first essays on the book's central theme by business leaders from four nations Next there are analyses of three key topics by scholars active in the fields of economics and ethics Then come statements by practitioners of four major world religions on the relevance of their respective traditions to the ethics of business Finally there are six brief case studies prepared by two business ethicists about specific ethical issues arising in international business The authors address different facets of one of the most dramatic new facts of our time the globalization of business With many corporations now operating around the world and others planning a significant expansion of markets this development is destined to accelerate in coming decades managers in pursuit of the first goal to accumulate power for its own sake The third is the desire for people in the community to create relationships that will perpetuate these communities Frederick brings in a range of ideas and concepts from the social sciences as well as the natural sciences to illuminate his discussion In the final section of the book he explores a range of issues of current concern to managers including corporate culture and technology Public Relations Ethics Dick Martin, Donald K. Goldberg, 2014-01-13 Building on the breakthrough text Philosophy and Engineering An Emerging Agenda this book offers 30 chapters covering conceptual and substantive developments in the philosophy of engineering along with a series of critical reflections by engineering practitioners The volume demonstrates how reflective engineering can contribute to a better understanding of engineering identity and explores how integrating engineering and philosophy could lead to innovation in engineering methods design and education The volume is divided into reflections on practice principles and process each of which challenges prevalent assumptions and commitments within engineering and philosophy The volume explores the ontological and epistemological dimensions of engineering and exposes the falsity of the commonly held belief that the field is simply the application of science knowledge to problem solving Above all the perspectives collected here demonstrate the value of a constructive dialogue between engineering and philosophy and show how collaboration between the disciplines casts light on longstanding problems from both sides The chapters in this volume are from a diverse and international body of authors including philosophers and engineers and represent a highly select group of papers originally presented in three different conferences These are the 2008 Workshop on Philosophy and Engineering WPE 2008 held at the Royal Academy of Engineering the 2009 meeting of the Society for Philosophy and Technology SPT 2009 at the University of Twente in the Netherlands and the Forum on Philosophy Engineering and Technology fPET 2010 held in Golden Colorado at the Colorado School of Mines
