Comprehensive infrastructure development in water and sanitation the growing trend to seek additional resources in the form of groundwater desalinated seawater and recycled wastewater as well as special attention being given to capturing and preserving rainwater bear evidence of a timely response to climate change population growth and rapid development in many water stressed regions of the world The purpose of the book is to provide a historical overview of the manner in which South Africa s water resources have been governed from a time when the Union of South Africa was formed in 1910 up to 2008 a time of a growing global awareness of the potential impact that climate change may have on water resources in a key region of southern Africa notable for increasing levels of aridity and more erratic rainfall patterns This focus on the history of water affairs in South Africa makes it possible for scholars to comprehend the contemporary transitions made in the country s water governance system since the establishment in 2014 of the Department of Water and Sanitation The focus is on the Water Energy Food nexus a strategy which holistically contemplates the governance and use of water from the perspective of the interconnection between water energy and food as resources African Struggles Today Leo Zeilig, Peter Dwyer, 2012 Three leading Africa scholars investigate the social forces driving the democratic transformation of postcolonial states across southern Africa Extensive research and interviews with civil society organizers in Zimbabwe South Africa Zambia Malawi Namibia and Swaziland inform this analysis of the challenges faced by non governmental organizations in relating both to the attendant inequality of globalization and to grassroots struggles for social justice Peter Dwyer is a tutor in economics at Ruskin College in Oxford Leo Zeilig Lecturer at the Institute of Commonwealth Studies University of London

State-Society Relations around the World through the Lens of the COVID-19 Pandemic Federica Duca, Sarah Meny-Gibert, 2023-12-04 The collection examines state society relations during the COVID 19 pandemic from governance at the outset of the pandemic to vaccine rollouts via a series of case studies from around the world With a focus on the Global South the book includes chapters on the experiences of Angola Zimbabwe South Africa Bolivia Argentina Brazil Jamaica and Indonesia as well as contributions from the Global North on Sweden Canada Czech Republic and New Zealand The collection demonstrates that the effects of the pandemic can only be properly revealed by looking at the regional and local contexts in which states and societies experienced it Contributors examine themes such as the nature of contemporary democracy state capacity the legitimacy of state institutions and trust in government questions of social solidarity and forms and impacts of inequality Focusing on national or sub national cases each chapter analyses the underlying forces and structures revealed when the authority of the state is brought to bear on the agency of citizens under emergency conditions In doing so contributors embed analysis of pandemic governance in the historical context of each country or region highlighting how political choices histories of the state s treatment of citizens and the orientations of a region s elites shaped the actions taken by the state The book will be of interest to those looking to understand how the pandemic was interpreted accepted or contested at the local national or sub national level and to those interested in state society relations more generally It will appeal to scholars and students interested in questions of pandemic government from a social scientific point of view and especially to those interested in perspectives from the Global South
