The book's content coverage while broad is also in depth and it skillfully integrates examples from varied types of texts. The practical and accessible style makes it both engaging and informative. The diverse examples illustrate not only the technicalities of translation as a process but the vivid dynamics brought about by the fact that the languages involved in the translation process belong to different language families. The use of these examples for almost every aspect of translation explained makes this book unique and valuable to translation scholars and practitioners alike. It also includes the first quantitative study of phonation types in Khoesan languages and the first study of phonation types associated with pharyngeal consonants all around. Miller-Ockhuizen describes the phonetics and phonology of gutturals in the Khoesan language of Juhoansi. Hers is the first study of voice quality cues associated with epiglottalized vowels.
