Government and Politics of the Contemporary Middle East Tareq Y. Ismael, Jacqueline S. Ismael, 2023-09-18 This exciting new edition of the successful textbook for students of Middle Eastern politics provides a highly relevant and comprehensive introduction to the complexities of a region in constant flux Combining a thematic framework for examining patterns of politics with individual chapters dedicated to specific countries the book places the very latest developments and long standing issues within an historical context This third edition extends its analysis to post 2015 developments in the region as well as expanding the range of pedagogical features on offer Presenting information in an accessible and inclusive format the book offers Coverage of the historical influence of colonialism and major world powers on the shaping of the modern Middle East A detailed examination of the legacy of Islam Analysis of the political and social aspects of Middle Eastern life including alienation between the state and society poverty and social inequality and ideological crisis and renewal Case studies on countries in the Fertile Crescent Iraq Syria and Lebanon and Israel Palestine the Northern Belt Turkey and Iran and those West and East of the Red Sea Egypt and the members of the Gulf Cooperation Council A key introductory text for students of Middle Eastern politics and history at advanced undergraduate and postgraduate levels this new edition has been extensively updated to also become a timely and significant reference for policy makers and any motivated reader Rentier Islamism Courtney Freer, 2018-03-01 While scholars have long looked at the role of political Islam in the Middle East it has been assumed that domestic politics in the wealthy monarchical states of the Arabian Gulf so called rentier states where taxes are very low and oil wealth subsidizes the needs of citizens are largely unaffected by such movements However the long accepted rentier theory has been shortsighted in overlooking the socio political role played by Muslim Brotherhood affiliates in the super rentiers of Kuwait Qatar and the United Arab Emirates While rentier state theory assumes that citizens of such states will form opposition blocs only when their stake in rent income is threatened this book demonstrates that ideology rather than rent have motivated the formation of independent Islamist movements in the wealthiest states of the region In the monarchical systems of Qatar and the UAE Islamist groups do not have the opportunity to compete for power and therefore cannot use the ballot box to gain popularity or influence political life as they do elsewhere in the Middle East But as this book points out the division between the social and political sectors is often blurred in the socially conservative states of the Gulf as political actors operate through channels that are not institutionalized Simply because politics is underinstitutionalized in such states does not mean that it is underdeveloped the informal realm holds considerable political capital As such the book argues that Brotherhood movements have managed to use the links between the social i e informal personal networks and political i e government institutions to gain influence in policymaking in such states Using contemporary history and original empirical research Courtney Freer updates traditional rentier state theory and argues that political Islam serves as a prominent voice and tool to promote more strictly political and often populist or reformist views supported by many Gulf citizens

Disorder and Diagnosis Laura Frances Goffman, 2024-10-15 Disorder and Diagnosis offers a social and political history of medicine disease and public health in the Persian Gulf from the late nineteenth century until the 1973 oil boom. Foregrounding the everyday practices of Gulf residents, hospital patients, quarantined passengers, women, migrant nurses, and others too often excluded from histories of this region, Laura Frances Goffman demonstrates how the Gulf and its Arabian hinterland served as a buffer zone between diseased India and white Europe as a space of scientific translation and ultimately as an object of development. In placing health at the center of political and social change, this book weaves the Gulf and Arabian Peninsula into global circulations of commodities and movements of people. As a collection of institutions and infrastructures, pursuits of health created shifting boundaries of rule between imperial officials, indigenous elites, and local populations. As a set of practices seeking to manipulate the natural world, health policies compelled scientists and administrators to categorize fluid populations and ambiguous territorialities. And as a discourse, health facilitated notions of racial difference, opposing native uncleanness to white purity and hygiene, and indigenous medicine to modern science. Disorder and Diagnosis examines how Gulf residents, through their engagements with health, fiercely contested and actively shaped state and societal interactions.

Exploring Islam beyond Orientalism and Occidentalism Christel Gärtner, Heidmarie Winkel, 2021-06-29 Islamic religion has become an object of political discourse in ways that also affects academic reflection. Against this background, this volume aims to provide a theoretically and empirically founded assessment of where social sciences currently stand with regard to Islam. For this purpose, the volume continues to develop the sociological knowledge of Islam that began in the 1980s. Given the Orientalism inherent in sociology, the volume focuses on Muslim knowledge systems and institutions as well as the practice of Muslim religiosity in various social contexts stretching from Algeria and Morocco to Turkey.

Museums of the Arabian Peninsula Sarina Wakefield, 2020-12-17 Museums of the Arabian Peninsula offers new insights into the history and development of museums within the region. Recognising and engaging with varied approaches to museum development and practice, the book offers in-depth critical analyses from a range of viewpoints and disciplines. Drawing on regional and international scholarship, the book provides a critical and detailed analysis of museum and heritage institutions in Bahrain, Jordan, Kuwait, Oman, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, the UAE, and Yemen. Questioning and engaging with issues related to the institutionalisation of cultural heritage, contributors provide original analyses of current practice and challenges within the region. Considering how these challenges connect to broader issues within the international context, the book offers the opportunity to examine how museums are actively produced and consumed from both the inside and the outside. This critical analysis also enables debates to emerge that question the appropriateness of existing models and methods and provide suggestions for future research and practice. Museums of the Arabian Peninsula offers fresh perspectives that reveal how Gulf museums operate from local, regional, and transnational perspectives. The volume will be a key reference point for academics and students working in the fields of museum and heritage studies, anthropology, cultural studies, history, politics, and Gulf and Middle East Studies.
