Islamic Studies Punjab Text Board Class 9:

A comparative study of elite English-medium schools, public schools, and Islamic madaris in contemporary Pakistan Akhtar Hassan Malik, 2015-04-12 This ethnographic study examines the role of differing school knowledge in reproducing various social classes in the society. It was observed that an unequal availability of capital resources, agents' class habitus, and the type of their cultural currency act as selection mechanisms that clearly favour some social groups over others. The ruling classes ensure the transfer of their power and privilege to their children by providing them with quality education in elite schools. The disadvantaged classes are excluded from these unique institutions by both social and economic sanctions. They have no other option than to educate their children either in public schools or Islamic madaris. As a result, inequitable educational opportunities consolidate the existing social class hierarchy.

Pakistan Under Siege Madiha Afzal, 2018-01-02 Over the last fifteen years, Pakistan has come to be defined exclusively in terms of its struggle with terror. But are ordinary Pakistanis extremists? And what explains how Pakistanis think? Much of the current work on extremism in Pakistan tends to study extremist trends in the country from a detached position, a top-down security perspective that renders a one-dimensional picture of what is at its heart: a complex, richly textured country of 200 million people. In this book, using rigorous analysis of survey data, in-depth interviews in schools and universities in Pakistan, historical narrative, reporting, and her own intuitive understanding of the country, Madiha Afzal gives the full picture of Pakistan's relationship with extremism. The author lays out Pakistanis' own views on terrorist groups, on jihad, on religious minorities, and non-Muslims, on America, and on their place in the world. The views are not radical at first glance but are riddled with conspiracy theories. Afzal explains how the two pillars that define the Pakistani state, Islam and a paranoia about India, have led to a regressive form of Islamization in Pakistan's narratives, laws, and curricula. These in turn have shaped its citizens' attitudes. Afzal traces this outlook to Pakistan's unique and tortured birth. She examines the rhetoric and the strategic actions of three actors in Pakistani politics: the military, the civilian governments, and the Islamist parties, and their relationships with militant groups. She shows how regressive Pakistani laws instituted in the 1980s worsened citizen attitudes and led to vigilante and mob violence. The author also explains that the educational regime has become a vital element in shaping citizens' thinking. How many years one attends school, whether the school is public, private, or a madrassa, and what curricula is followed, all affect Pakistanis' attitudes about terrorism and the rest of the world. In the end, Afzal suggests how this beleaguered nation, one with seemingly insurmountable problems in governance and education, can change course.

(Re)Constructing Memory: Textbooks, Identity, Nation, and State James H. Williams, Wendy D. Bokhorst-Heng, 2016-07-08 This book engages readers in thirteen conversations presented by authors from around the world regarding the role that textbooks play in helping readers imagine membership in the nation. Authors' voices come from a variety of contexts: some historical, some contemporary, some providing analyses over time. But they all consider the changing portrayal of diversity, belonging, and exclusion in multiethnic and diverse societies where silenced invisible marginalized members have struggled to make their voices heard and to have their identities incorporated into the national narrative The authors discuss portrayals of past exclusions around religion ethnicity sexual orientation as they look at the shifting boundaries of insider and outsider This book is thus about who we are not only demographically but also in terms of the past especially how and whether we teach discredited pasts through textbooks The concluding chapters provides ways forward in thinking about what can be done to promote curricula that are more inclusive critical and positively bonding in increasingly larger and more inclusive contexts

Religious Fundamentalism in the Contemporary World Santosh C. Saha,2004-01-01 Today new and ever more pernicious forms of terrorist violence threaten the world Because these new forms of violence are so often linked to religious radicalism modern terrorism has challenged the secular ethics of contemporary civil society There is a pressing need to understand modern religious movements that have added militancy and belligerence as fundamental elements of religious practice Contributors to this volume painstakingly tackle the question of how to define the contours of current religious fundamentalism as they examine the private and public postures of fundamentalist rhetoric the importance of its regional variants and the damage it can do to regional and national education systems Their analysis tracks trends in religious movements that aspire to radicalize reform and violently topple governments and nations while highlighting the difference between fundamentalist interpretations and other longstanding juridical political and intellectual traditions

Teaching the Violent Past Elizabeth A. Cole,2007-10-04 During an armed conflict or period of gross human rights violations the first priority is a cessation of violence For the cease fire to be more than a lull in hostilities and atrocities however it must be accompanied by a plan for political transition and social reconstruction Essential to this long term reconciliation process is education reform that teaches future generations information repressed under dictatorial regimes and offers new representations of former enemies In Teaching the Violent Past Cole has gathered nine case studies exploring the use of history education to promote tolerance inclusiveness and critical thinking in nations around the world Online Book Companion is available at http://www.ccea.org/resources_for_educators_and_students/teaching_the_violent_past/index.html

Youth and the National Narrative Marie Lall,Tania Saeed,2019-11-28 The role of the security establishment in Pakistan has been strengthened in a post Musharraf era as social institutions are increasingly drawn into the security agenda Pakistan s problems are often explained through the lens of ethnic or religious differences the tense relationship between democracy and the Pakistan military or geopolitics and terrorism without taking into account young citizens role in questioning the state and the role of the education system Based on new research and interviews with more than 1900 Pakistanis aged 16-28 the authors examine young people s understanding of citizenship political participation the state and terrorism in post Musharraf Pakistan The authors explore the relationship between the youth and the security state highlighting how the educational institutions social media political activism and the entire nature of the social contract in Pakistan has been increasingly securitized The focus is on the voices of young Pakistanis their views on state accountability or lack thereof political literacy and participation and the continued problem of terrorism that is transforming their views of both their country and the world today With 67% of the country s population under the age of 30 this book is a unique window into how Pakistan is likely to evolve in the next couple of decades Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1997 At Freedom's Limit Sadia Abbas,2014-05-26 The subject of this book is a new Islam This Islam began to take shape in 1988 around the Rushdie affair the collapse of the Berlin Wall in 1989 and the first Gulf War of 1991 It was consolidated in the period following September 11 2001 It is a name a discursive site a signifier at once flexible and constrained indeed it is a geopolitical agon in and around which some of the most pressing aporias of modernity enlightenment liberalism and reformation are worked out At this discursive site are many metonyms for Islam the veiled or pious Muslim woman the militant the minority Muslim injured by Western free speech Each of these figures functions as a cipher enabling repeated encounters with the question How do we free ourselves from freedom Again and again freedom is imagined as Western modern imperial a dark imposition of Enlightenment The pious and injured Muslim who desires his or her own enslavement is imagined as freedom s other At Freedom s Limit is an intervention into current debates regarding religion secularism and Islam and provides a deep critique of the anthropology and sociology of Islam that have consolidated this formation It shows that even as this Islam gains increasing traction in cultural production from television shows to movies to novels the most intricate contestations of Islam so construed are to be found in the work of Muslim writers and painters This book includes extended readings of jihadist proclamations postcolonial law responses to law from minorities in Muslim majority societies Islamophobic films the novels of Leila Aboulela Mohammed Hanif and Nadeem Aslam and the paintings of Komail Aijazuddin
