Assessing Reading 1: Theory and Practice Colin Harrison, Terry Salinger, 2002-01-04 This book along with its companion volume Assessing Reading 2 Changing Practice in Classrooms was originally conceived as the major outcome from an international seminar on reading assessment held in England It focuses particularly on theoretical and methodological issues though with a clear series of links to practices in assessment especially state and national approaches to classroom based assessment in the USA the UK and in Australia at both primary and secondary levels Chapters offer new perspectives on the theories that underlie the development and interpretation of reading assessments national assessments and classroom based assessment challenging readers to think in different ways Echnology Assessment in Software Applications Harold F. O'Neil, Jr., Eva Baker, Harold F. O'Neil, 2013-11-05 This volume offers an expansion of ideas presented at a recent conference convened to identify the major strategies and more promising practices for assessing technology The authors representing government business and university sectors helped to set the boundaries of present technology assessment by offering perspectives from computer science cognitive and military psychology and education Their work explores both the use of techniques to assess technology and the use of technology to facilitate the assessment process The book s main purpose is to portray the state of the art in technology assessment and to provide conceptual options to help readers understand the power of technology Technological innovation will continue to develop its own standards of practice and effectiveness To the extent that these practices are empirically based designers supporters and consumers will be given better information for their decisions
