Why do we keep talking about so many environmental problems and rarely solve any If these are scientific issues then why can't scientists solve them or at least agree on what to do In his new book The Moon in the Nautilus Shell ecologist Daniel Botkin explains why For one thing although we live in a world of constantly changing environments and talk a lot about climate change most of our environmental laws policies and scientific premises are based on the idea that the environment is constant never changing except when people affect it For another we have lost contact with nature in personal ways Disconnected from our surroundings we lack the deep understanding and feelings about the environment to make meaningful judgments The environment has become just another one of those special interests that interferes with our lives Poised to be a core text of the twenty first century environmental movement The Moon in the Nautilus Shell challenges us to think critically about our role in nature

Environmental Science: Earth as a Living Planet 9th Edition Daniel B. Botkin, Environmental Science: Earth as a Living Planet 8E Binder Ready Version with BRS Flyer Set Daniel B. Botkin, 2011-07-20 Water Resources Alexander Lane, Michael Norton, Sandra Ryan, 2017-09-12 Over 7 billion people demand water from resources that the changing climate is making more and more difficult to harness. Water scarcity and shortage are increasingly common and conditions are becoming more extreme. Inadequate and inappropriate management of water is already taking its toll on the environment and on the quality of life of millions of people. Modern water professionals have a duty to develop sound water science and robust evidence to lobby and influence national and regional development policy and investment priorities. We need to be bold and brave to challenge the status quo, argue the case for change and create a New Water Architecture. Water Resources: A New Water Architecture takes a unique approach to the challenges of water management. The stress caused by our desire to live, eat and consume is examined in the context of Governance, the role of policy and the commercial world. The authors share their nine step vision for a New Water Architecture. Written by three industry practitioners, this book provides students, young professionals, policymakers and those interested in the sustainability of our natural resources with a pragmatic and compelling perspective on how to manage the ultimate resource of our time. Environmental Science Botkin, 2009-05-16 Environmental Science Daniel B.
