Soil Hydrology, Land Use and Agriculture Manoj Shukla, 2011 Agriculture is strongly affected by changes in soil hydrology as well as changes in land use and management practices and the complex interactions between them This book develops an understanding of these interactions on a watershed scale using soil hydrology models and addresses the consequences of land use and management changes on agriculture from a research perspective Case studies illustrate the impact of land use and management on various soil hydrological parameters under different climates and ecosystems

Geoinformatics and Atmospheric Science Tomasz Niedzielski, Krzysztof Migala, 2017-09-09 This volume presents recent developments in atmospheric sciences driven by numerical modeling which makes use of geospatial technologies and increasing computational power It gathers examples of how geoinformatics supports meteorological climatological and water related studies One of the most important features of geospatial technologies is that they provide methods and tools which may be utilized in real time or near real time in order to monitor and predict atmospheric processes This is particularly crucial in areas where dynamics of atmospheric phenomena is considerable and causes difficulties in accurate forecasting One of such areas is the transitional zone between oceanic and continental features of the mid latitude climate Good examples of investigations into the transitional zone come from Poland and its neighboring countries The topical volume provides the reader with a selection of papers on physically based and data based modelling of weather related phenomena over Poland This main theme of the topical volume is extended to cover case studies on the use of geoinformatics in
