Ralph Ellison's Invisible Man Anthony S. Abbott, 1985 An African American man's search for success and the American dream leads him out of college to Harlem and a growing sense of personal rejection and social invisibility Copyright Libri GmbH All rights reserved , Out of Touch Maureen F.

Curtin, 2013-09-13 Out of Touch investigates how skin has become a crucial but disavowed figure in twentieth century literature theory and cultural criticism These discourses reveal the extent to which skin figures in the cultural effect of changes in visual technologies a development argued by critics to be at the heart of the contest between surface and depth and by extension Western globalization and identity politics The skin has a complex history as a metaphorical terrain over which ideological wars are fought identity is asserted through modification as in tattooing and meaning is inscribed upon the human being Yet even as interventions on the skin characterize much of this history fantasy and science fiction literature and film trumpet skin's passing in the cybernetic age and feminist theory calls for abandoning the skin as a hostile boundary
