Meeting, 2004 The Standard Periodical Directory, 2003 Real Property in Australia Michael J. Hefferan, 2020-08-17 Real property in the form of investment ownership and use pervades almost every aspect of daily lives and represents over 40% of Australia's wealth Such assets do not exist in isolation they are dynamic and forever evolving impacted by a range of physical economic demographic legal and other forces Consequently a true appreciation of individual assets and of the property sector as a whole demands an understanding of both the assets themselves and the context and markets in which they exist The sector is complex and on the face of it confusing It is however not without logic and underlying themes and principles This book provides a wider understanding of how the real property sector works It covers topics such as the nature of real property and its functions economic drivers valuation principles legal and tenure parameters property taxation land development and subdivision asset and property management and sustainability all critical components in this complex and critically important sector It provides a wide and balanced perspective for experienced practitioners investors students and anyone involved in property decision making or wishing to secure a deeper understanding of these areas The book integrates research based theory with practical application and first hand insights into a sector that underpins the Australian economy its communities and its sustainability

EU Competition Law and the Information and Communication Technology Network Industries

Andrej Fatur,2012-03-08 Competition policies have long been based on a scholarly tradition focused on static models and static analysis of industrial organisation However recent developments in industrial organisation literature have led to significant advances moving beyond traditional static models and a preoccupation with price competition to consider the organisation of industries in a dynamic context This is especially important in the field of information and communication technology ICT network industries where competition centres on network effects innovation and intellectual property rights and where the key driver of consumer benefit is technological progress Consequently when an antitrust intervention is contemplated a number of considerations that arise out of the specific nature of the ICT sector have to be taken into account to ensure improved consumer welfare This book considers the adequacy of existing EU competition policy in the area of the ICT industries in the light of the findings of modern economic theory Particular attention is given to the implications of these dynamic markets for the competitive assessment and treatment of the most common competitive harms in this area such as non price predatory practices tying and bundling co operative standard setting platform joint ventures and co operative R D
