

with their parents.

Activity A:

Patterns of inheritance

Get the Gizmo ready:

- Click Clear.
- Drag a black mouse and a white mouse into the parent boxes, but don't click Breed yet.

Question: What patterns are shown by offspring traits?

1. Predict: What do you think the offspring of a black mouse and a white mouse will look like?

a blend in its initial generation The majority of them resemble black mice, but if we look at later generations, we might anticipate seeing some white mice.

2. Observe: Click Breed several times. What do you see?

Only black mice that are moving are visible to me.

3. Observe: Drag two offspring into the Holding Cages. These mice are called hybrids because their parents had different traits. Click Clear, and then breed the two hybrids.

What do you see now?

I observed four black mice and one white mouse from a second generation of black and white mice.

4. Experiment: Turn on Show statistics. Click Breed until there are 100 offspring.

How many offspring were black?

69

How many were white?

31

5. Explore: Try other combinations of mouse parents. Write the results of each experiment in your notes. When you have finished, answer the following questions. (Note: You can refer to the parents as "pure black," "pure white," or "hybrid.")

- A. Which parent combination(s) yield only white offspring?
- B. Which parent combination(s) yield only black offspring?
- C. Which parent combination(s) yield a mixture of black and white offspring?

pure white

pure black hybrid

6. Challenge: Based on experiments similar to these, Gregor Mendel devised a theory of inheritance. Use your own observations to come up with your own explanation of how a trait such as fur color is passed down from parents to offspring. If possible, discuss your theory with your classmates and teacher.
