Research Anthology on Supporting Healthy Aging in a Digital Society Management Association, Information Resources, 2022-02-04 In today's rapidly evolving society there has been an increase in technologies and systems available to support the elderly throughout various aspects of life. We have come a long way in the quality of life we can offer our aging populations in recent years due to these technological innovations, medical advancements, and research initiatives. However, further study of these developments is crucial to ensure they are utilized to their utmost potential in securing a healthier elderly population. The Research Anthology on Supporting Healthy Aging in a Digital Society discusses the current challenges of aging in the modern world as well as recent developments in medicine and technology that can be used to improve the quality of life of elderly citizens. Covering a wide range of topics such as smart homes, remote healthcare, and aging in place, this reference work is ideal for healthcare professionals, gerontologists, therapists, government officials, policymakers, researchers, academicians, practitioners, scholars, instructors, and students. NAIRTL Grants Initiative Jennifer Murphy, Aimie Brennan, 2011. The mission of the National Academy for Integration of Research Teaching and Learning (NAIRTL) is to ensure that all higher education students are exposed to cutting-edge research in their classrooms and that students at undergraduate and postgraduate levels are actively engaged in relevant and authentic research in their chosen discipline. To this end, NAIRTL has initiated a wide range of events and activities aimed at enhancing student learning and that support stronger links between research and teaching. This report focuses on the impact of just one of these creative interventions: namely, the NAIRTL grants initiative. The objective of the grants initiative is to provide financial support to research proposals that endeavour to enhance student learning through developing innovative and creative approaches to teaching and assessment. More than forty per cent of the National Academy's total budget to date has been invested in the grants initiative, funding 161 projects that involve 420 researchers in seventeen higher education institutions in Ireland. This report focuses on the impact of the projects that were funded in the period 2007-2010. The report is divided into three parts. The first part provides a brief introduction to the National Academy, giving an overview of a selection of its main initiatives, i.e., the awards programme for excellence in teaching, professional development activities in academic practice, and development of publications and resources. Part two of this report presents the findings of an evaluation of the impact of the grants initiative. Part three of this report presents fifteen case studies of projects that were funded through the NAIRTL grants initiative. Appended are: 1. NAIRTL Publications; 2. Table of Outputs; and 3. List of Projects Funded 2007-2011. Contains 23 footnotes. Mount Holyoke College 2012 Alessandra Hickson, 2011-03-15 Department of Justice Manual Wolters Kluwer, 2012-03-23. Chris Fields, 2016-08-18 Human beings experience a world of objects bounded entities that occupy space and persist through time Our actions are directed toward objects and our language describes objects We categorize objects into kinds that have different typical properties and behaviors We regard some kinds of objects each other for example as animate agents capable of independent experience and action while we regard other kinds of objects as inert We re identify objects immediately and without conscious deliberation after days or even years of non observation and often following changes in the features locations or contexts of the objects being re identified Comparative developmental and adult observations using a variety of approaches and methods have yielded a detailed understanding of object detection and recognition by the visual system and an advancing understanding of haptic and auditory information processing Many fundamental questions however remain unanswered What for example physically constitutes an object How do specific classically characterizable object boundaries emerge from the physical dynamics described by quantum theory and can this emergence process be described independently of any assumptions regarding the perceptual capabilities of observers How are visual motion and feature information combined to create object information How are the object trajectories that indicate persistence to human observers implemented and how are these trajectory representations bound to feature representations How for example are point light walkers recognized as single objects How are conflicts between trajectory driven and feature driven identifications of objects resolved for example in multiple object tracking situations Are there separate what and where processing streams for haptic and auditory perception Are there haptic and or auditory equivalents of the visual object file Are there equivalents of the visual object token How are object identification conflicts between different perceptual systems resolved Is the common assumption that persistent object is a fundamental innate category justified How does the ability to identify and categorize objects relate to the ability to name and describe them using language How are features that an individual object had in the past but does not have currently represented How are categorical constraints on how objects move or act represented and how do such constraints influence categorization and the re identification of individuals How do human beings re identify objects including each other as persistent individuals across changes in location context and features even after gaps in observation lasting months or years How do human capabilities for object categorization and re identification over time relate to those of other species and how do human infants develop these capabilities What can modeling approaches such as cognitive robotics tell us about the answers to these questions Primary research reports reviews and hypothesis and theory papers addressing questions relevant to the understanding of perceptual object segmentation categorization and individual identification at any scale and from any experimental or modeling perspective are solicited for this Research Topic Papers that review particular sets of issues from multiple disciplinary perspectives or that advance integrative hypotheses or models that take data from multiple experimental approaches into account are especially encouraged
