Geomorphology Robert S. Anderson, Suzanne P. Anderson, 2010-06-17 This textbook provides a modern quantitative and process oriented approach to equip students with the tools to understand geomorphology Insight into the interpretation of landscapes is developed from basic principles and simple models and by stepping through the equations that capture the essence of the mechanics and chemistry of landscapes Boxed worked examples and real world applications bring the subject to life for students allowing them to apply the theory to their own experience The book covers cutting edge topics including the revolutionary cosmogenic nuclide dating methods and modeling highlights links to other Earth sciences through up to date summaries of current research and illustrates the importance of geomorphology in understanding environmental changes Setting up problems as a conservation of mass ice soil or heat this book arms students with tools to fully explore processes understand landscapes and to participate in this rapidly evolving field Treatise on Geomorphology

,2013-02-27 The changing focus and approach of geomorphic research suggests that the time is opportune for a summary of the state of discipline The number of peer reviewed papers published in geomorphic journals has grown steadily for more than two decades and more importantly the diversity of authors with respect to geographic location and disciplinary background geography geology ecology civil engineering computer science geographic information science and others has expanded dramatically As more good minds are drawn to geomorphology and the breadth of the peer reviewed literature grows an effective summary of contemporary geomorphic knowledge becomes increasingly difficult The fourteen volumes of this Treatise on Geomorphology will provide an important reference for users from undergraduate students looking for term paper topics to graduate students starting a literature review for their thesis work and professionals seeking a concise summary of a particular topic Information on the historical development of diverse topics within geomorphology provides context for ongoing research discussion of research strategies equipment and field methods laboratory experiments and numerical simulations reflect the multiple approaches to understanding Earth s surfaces and summaries of outstanding research questions highlight future challenges and suggest productive new avenues for research Our future ability to adapt to geomorphic changes in the critical zone very much hinges upon how well landform scientists comprehend the dynamics of Earth s diverse surfaces This Treatise on Geomorphology provides a useful synthesis of the state of the discipline as well as highlighting productive research directions that Educators and students researchers will find useful Geomorphology has advanced greatly in the last 10 years to become a very interdisciplinary field Undergraduate students looking for term paper topics to graduate students starting a literature review for their thesis work and professionals seeking a concise summary of a particular topic will find the answers they need in this broad reference work which has been designed and written to accommodate their diverse backgrounds and levels of understanding Editor in Chief Prof J F Shroder of the University of Nebraska at Omaha is past president of the QG G section of the Geological Society of America and present Trustee of the

Understanding Hydrological Variability for Improved Water Management in the Semi-Arid Karkheh Basin, Iran Ilyas Masih,2011-09-28 This study provides a hydrology based assessment of surface water resources and its continuum of variability and change at different spatio temporal scales in the semi arid Karkheh Basin Iran where water is scarce competition among users is high and massive water resources development is under way The study reveals that the ongoing allocation planning is not sustainable and essentially requires reformulation with consideration of spatio temporal variability and observed trends in the streamflows regarding flood intensification and decline in low flows The development of innovative methods for quantification of the hydrological fluxes i e regionalization of model parameters based on similarity of the flow duration curve and the use of areal precipitation input in the hydrological modeling helped better understanding and modeling the basin hydrology The investigation of scenarios for upgrading rain fed areas to irrigated agriculture using SWAT recommends the promotion of in situ soil and water conservation techniques Conversion of rain fed areas to irrigation causes significant reduction in the downstream flows and requires additional considerations such as less development in the upper catchments practicing supplementary irrigation and developing water storage The knowledge generated is instructive for hydrological assessment and its use in water resources planning and management in the river basin context
