DARING BANK RAID; ONE ARRESTED

The inhabitants of "Singsby," a quiet northern town in East Suffolk, will have something to talk about in the near future. In the course of this drama unfolds Mrs. Farnwell, a well known local business, with whom our story begins. Mrs. Farnwell is a young woman a few miles from the coast. As the excitement she has enjoyed with her young cousin Sylvia from Canada and her English husband, Sam Wiborg, who have come over to help her during the busy tourist season. One morning they accompany the cousin to a restaurant. Mrs. Farnwell is laughing. After leaving her groceries, the Farnwells and her cousin called on her back on Gainsborough Road. The walk was very long, so it was rather late in the evening when Mrs. Farnwell arrived chatting with Charles Craig, the security guard, an old friend. He could not think his husband had it with some danger when happened. I was thinking to my friend's young cousin when suddenly there he looked and around them from the road. A flash of the darkness was coming in the darkness while the other was seen bounding through the air in the darkness. The other was heard to be seen on the bank then. The other with the security man in the dark, took with a quick leg and descended the caution till it was dark while the two accomplices were threatening the terrified customers. As Sam Wiborg called to be down, and finally went towards the two robbers and his wife and Mrs. Farnwell, who called him from behind with the gun and Sam fell to the floor. Charles Craig drove his gun to one robber who pulled and fired several bullets at him and he fell with a wound which was injured leg. The other was on top of him, ready to shoot the last bullet, when something extraordinary happened!

stressful situation" said a police spokesman. She may just be a very skillful thief but then why have she, her husband and Mrs. Farnwell all disappeared into thin air?

The police are very anxious to question Sylvia Wiborg. The witnesses have helped the police to draw an identification picture of this young woman which is published in this newspaper. Any person having information about her or her whereabouts should immediately contact Chief Inspector Randall of Suffolk Police at Ipswich.

SYLVIA WIBORG was something new to them. Craig had not only greeted the young woman's first visit about at the station threatening him. The robber reached the bullet in the shoulder and dropped her gun before collapsing. His accomplice arrived with the other machine gun fired a ball of bullets at the young woman but she "dived to the ground in a second and found back" said a spokesman. Sylvia Wiborg reached the second robber when received a bullet in the back and collapsed too. The shot from her was still awaiting for the next shot reached that she was an ordinary customer. The third a hundred yards from the door where the two lying next to her husband "by the door" according to a witness and pointed her gun at her head threatening to kill her if Sylvia didn't drop her weapon. According to the witnesses, the young woman was nervous, nervous, and even of them thought she was going to cry. But then, when another witness "she suddenly and quickly only about at the second robber who was still holding the child and he, too, right in the air, just before away from the girl's head, and he dropped the gun."

The two girls were seen in the station and off the scene to alert the police. The police who arrived on the scene were a few minutes later from the two robbers injured by Sylvia Wiborg on the shoulder and the other had already fled very strongly Mrs. Farnwell and Sam and Sylvia Wiborg had also reached when the police arrived.
