APAIS 1994: Australian public affairs information service , Tourism and the Branded City Stephanie Hemelryk Donald, John G. Gammack, 2016-02-24 Comparing the major Pacific Rim cities of Sydney Hong Kong and Shanghai this book examines world city branding Whilst all three cities compete on the world s stage for events tourists and investment they are also at the centre of distinct film traditions and their identities are thus strongly connected with a cinematic impression Using an interdisciplinary approach this book not only analyses the city branding of these cities from the more widely researched perspectives of tourism marketing and regional development but also draws in cultural studies and psychology approaches which offer fresh and useful insights to place branding and marketing in general The authors compare and contrast qualitative and quantitative original data as well as critically analyzing current texts and debates on city branding In conclusion they argue that city branding should contribute not only to regional development and identity but also to sustainable economic well being and public happiness

Linguistics at School Kristin Denham, Anne Lobeck, 2010-01-07 Linguistics is a subject that has remained largely confined to the academy rather than being integrated into school curricula This is unfortunate but not surprising as although some teacher education programs include courses on linguistics it is not comprehensively integrated into teacher education so it is largely absent from the curriculum This volume brings together a team of leaders in the field of linguistics and education to provide an overview of the current state of research and practice It demonstrates changes which can be made to teaching such as revising teacher s preparation developing and implementing practical applications of linguistics in both primary and secondary classrooms partnering linguists with classroom teachers and working to improve state and national education standards The contributors emphasize the importance of collaboration between professional linguists and educators in order to meet a common goal to raise awareness of the workings of language

Bush, City, Cyberspace John Foster, Ern Finnis, Maureen Nimon, 2005-06-01 Aimed at academic professional and general readers Bush city cyberspace provides a snapshot of the state of Australian children s and adolescent literature in the early twenty first century and an insight into its history In doing so it promotes a sense of where Australian literature for young people may be going and captures a literary and critical mood with which readers in Australia and beyond will identify The title of the work is intended to capture the fact that the field has changed dramatically in the century and a half that

Australian children's literature has existed from the bush myths and heroism that inform the past and the present through the recognition that the vast majority of authors and readers live in cities to the third wave of cyberliterature that incorporates multimedia hypertext weblinks and e books none of which lessens the enduring enthusiasm of practitioners and readers for books. Bush city cyberspace is not meant to be an encyclopedic volume. Rather well known recent and or award winning works have been emphasised with the addition of others where these help to illuminate particular points. The book is similar in coverage and approach to Australian Children's Literature: An Exploration of Genre and Theme written by the same three authors and published by the Centre for Information Studies in 1995. In the intervening period much has changed in the field notable examples including the blurring of the dividing line between quality and popular literature the blending of genres the rise of a truly indigenous literature the demise to a significant extent of Outbackery in fiction the acceptance of multiculturalism as the norm and the advent of the literature of cyberspace with new methods and the sheer speed of communication between writer and reader. All these trends and others are reflected in this work.

Decolonising Criminology Harry Blagg, Thalia Anthony, 2019-11-23. This book undertakes an exploratory exercise in decolonizing criminology through engaging postcolonial and postdisciplinary perspectives and methodologies. Through its historical and political analysis and place based case studies it challenges criminological inquiry by installing colonial structures of power at the centre of the contemporary criminological debate. This work unseats the Western nation state as the singular point of departure for comparative criminological and socio legal research. Decolonising Criminology argues that postcolonial and postdisciplinary critique can open up new pathways for criminological investigation. It builds on recent debates in criminology from outside of the Anglosphere The authors deploy a number of heuristic devices perspectives and theories generally ignored by criminologists of the Global North and engage perspectives concerned with articulating new decolonised epistemologies of the Global South This book disputes the view that colonisation is a thing of the past and provides lessons for the Global North Staff Report on Corporate Accountability United States.
