integration of IT technologies into all aspects of learning require revising the traditional educational paradigms that have prevailed for the last centuries. Additionally, the globalization of education and student mobility requirements are favoring a fluid interchange of tools, methodologies, and evaluation strategies which promote innovation at an accelerated pace. Curricular revisions are also taking place to achieve a more specialized education that is able to respond to the society's requirements in terms of professional training. In this process, guaranteeing quality has also become a critical issue. On the industrial and technological side, the focus on ecological developments is essential to achieve a sustainable degree of prosperity, and all efforts to promote greener societies are welcome. In this book, we gather knowledge and experiences of different authors on all these topics, hoping to offer the reader a wider view of the revolution taking place within and without our educational centers. In summary, we believe that this book makes an important contribution to the fields of education and technology in these times of great change, offering a means for experts in the different areas to share valuable experiences and points of view that we hope are enriching to the reader. Enjoy the book. Federal personnel manual system, 1974

Sizing in Clothing S. Ashdown, 2007-04-11. The basic concepts behind sizing systems currently used in the manufacture of ready-to-wear garments were originally developed in the 19th century. These systems are frequently based on outdated anthropometric data; they lack standard labelling, and they generally do not accommodate the wide variations of body sizes and proportions that exist in the population. However, major technological improvements have made new population data available worldwide, with the potential to affect the future of sizing in many ways. New developments in computer-aided design and sophisticated mathematical and statistical methods of categorizing different body shapes can also contribute to the development of more effective sizing systems. This important book provides a critical appreciation of the key technological and scientific developments in sizing and their application. The first chapter in the book discusses the history of sizing systems and how this has affected the mass production of ready-to-wear clothing. Chapters two and three review methods for constructing new and adapting existing sizing systems and the standardisation of national and international sizing systems. Marketing and fit models are reviewed in chapter four, whilst chapter five presents an analysis of the grading process used to create size sets. Chapters six and seven discuss fit and sizing strategies in relation to function and the communication of sizing. Mass customization and a discussion of material properties and their effect on sizing are addressed in chapters eight and nine. Military sizing and the aesthetics of sizing are detailed in chapters ten and eleven. The final chapter reviews the impact on sizing of production systems and specifications. Written by an international team of contributors, this book is an essential reference to researchers, designers, students, and manufacturers in the clothing and fashion industry. Provides a critical appreciation of key technological and scientific developments in sizing and their application. Discusses how developments in sizing affect the mass production of ready-to-wear clothing. Reviews methods of constructing new and adapting existing sizing systems. The Echo Manual Jae K. Pattern Grading for Men's Clothes Gerry Cooklin, 1993-01-18. This book sets out for students and professionals the practical principles and applications of pattern grading for men's clothing. The first chapters examine some examples of international sizing systems, develop the methods of calculating and validating the grading increments from a given size chart and demonstrate the working methods for manual grading. The main part of the book presents in a simple stage by stage format the applications of the system to a comprehensive range of men's garments. This is followed by a section containing examples of grades for styled garments and each demonstration is preceded by a short discussion of the practical considerations involved. Finally, the state of the art of computerised grading is explained and the latest developments in fully automatic grading are discussed with some examples. A unique feature of this book is that some of the grading demonstrations include the grades for linings, fusibles and pockets etc. How garment manufacturing technology influences specific aspects of pattern grading is also discussed.
