

Sample Reflective Essay

Author: Nekisa Mahzad

I have been a student at California State University Channel Islands (CI) for 5 semesters, and over the course of my stay I have grown and learned more than I thought possible. I came to this school from Moorpark Community College already knowing that I wanted to be an English teacher; I had taken numerous English courses and though I knew exactly what I was headed for-was I ever wrong. Going through the English program has taught me so much more than stuff about literature and language, it has taught me how to be me. I have learned here how to write and express myself, how to think for myself, and how to find the answers to the things that I don't know. Most importantly I have learned how important literature and language are.

When I started at CI, I thought I was going to spend the next 3 years reading classics, discussing them and then writing about them. That was what I did in community college English courses, so I didn't think it would be much different here. On the surface, to an outsider, I am sure that this is what it appears that C.I. English majors do. In most all my classes I did read, discuss, and write papers; however, I quickly found out that that there was so much more to it. One specific experience I had while at C.I. really shows how integrated this learning is. Instead of writing a paper for my final project in Perspectives of Multicultural Literature (ENGL 449), I decided with a friend to venture to an Indian reservation and compare it to a book we read by Sherman Alexie. We had a great time and we learned so much more that we ever could have done from writing a paper. The opportunity to do that showed me that there are so many ways that one can learn that are both fun and educational.

The English courses also taught me how powerful the written word and language can be. Words tell so much more than a story. Stories tell about life and the human condition, they bring up the past and people and cultures that are long gone. Literature teaches about the self and the world surrounding the self. From these classes I learned about the world, its people and its history; through literature I learned how we as humans are all related. By writing about what we learn and/or what we believe, we are learning how to express ourselves.

I know that my ability to write and express my ideas, thoughts and knowledge has grown stronger each semester. I have always struggled to put my thoughts on paper in a manner that is coherent and correct according to assignments. I can remember being told numerous times in community college to "organize your

The Course Reflection Project Nicole Schonemann, Emily Metzgar, Andrew Libby, 2015-05-01 Service learning is entering a post initiatory phase At tertiary institutions of all types and sizes service learning programs are common and service learning requirements for graduation are growing in popularity Taken together alongside continued faculty interest in effective teaching these factors have raised the visibility and popularity of service learning Now the greater need in service learning is not to prove the need for or efficacy of service learning but to turn the focus squarely back on practice Following established best practice is not enough instructors also need to reflect on how this fits within the specific context and application of each unique course and service learning partnership While there are many excellent resources that detail best practice and showcase exemplary service learning courses faculty reflection and course revision often goes unmentioned In response to the lack of attention on the role of reflection and course revision we convened groups of faculty from a variety of disciplines to reflect deeply on their courses paying specific attention to obstacles and challenges These conversations were converted to articles for this edited collection each chapter representing the process of reflection and revision and serving as a guide to develop effective practice in varied curricular contexts This text contributes to the body of literature on service learning in a unique and practical manner Faculty teaching or interested in teaching service learning classes would benefit from this text as well as university administrators and community service directors involved in service learning at a programmatic and institutional level This book should be marketed to faculty teaching disciplinary service learning classes and service learning pedagogy classes and administrative offices involved in service learning This could be a supplementary text for graduate level pedagogy courses Higher education institutional libraries would benefit from this text as well as the national and state campus compact offices
