Hungary's Crisis of Democracy Peter Wilkin, 2016-08-26 This book examines the crisis of democracy that has arisen in Hungary since the election of the Fidesz government in 2010 After moving swiftly to transform the Hungarian constitution Fidesz created a new political system which has led its critics to argue that the era of democracy in Hungary is over US Senator John McCain has gone so far as to describe Hungary as an illiberal democracy on a path toward fascism The author argues that Fidesz has sought to challenge the capitalist and democratic transformation that shaped Hungary for 20 years after the fall of communism by increasing the power of the state over crucial aspects of the economy society and the political system In so doing Fidesz actions resemble those undertaken by many authoritarian states that have emerged since the end of the Second World War all aiming to build up a national capitalism and protect their economies whilst undertaking nation building To make sense of this the author draws upon two traditions of thought world systems analysis which situates Hungary in the context of its incorporation in the modern capitalist world system after the fall of communism and anarchist social thought which provides a unique way of seeing the actions of states and political elites In so doing the book argues that the events unfolding in Hungary cannot be explained on the basis of Hungarian exceptionalism but must be situated in the broader political and economic context that has shaped the development of Hungary since 1990 The form of capitalism introduced in Hungary and across the region of East and Central Europe has systematically undermined the strong state and social security that had existed under communism and when added to the failure of the left and liberals in the region it has paved the way for far right and neo fascist political movements to emerge claiming the mantle of defenders of society from the market This represents a fundamental threat to the enlightenment traditions that have shaped dominant modern political ideologies and raises profound problems for both the EU and NATO

Educational Assessment in Tanzania Joyce Kahembe,Liz Jackson,2020-11-04 This book examines teachers conceptions and practices of assessment in Tanzania Adopting a sociocultural perspective it reveals how Tanzanian teachers understand the role of assessment in relation to their classroom practices community and other factors The book determines that although teachers in Tanzania generally consider assessment to be useful for evaluating and monitoring learning improving student performance and for accountability their assessment practices are rarely seen as directly supporting student learning it is not that teachers do not know how to implement the mandated assessment reforms Instead they are reluctant to adopt and embrace the reforms because they consider them to be contradictory to their teaching roles and overly burdensome if not implausible given the physical economic and cultural contexts of teaching and learning This book argues that improving traditional assessments rather than radically transforming them can be more effective for cultivating practices that suit the physical political economic and cultural contexts of Tanzanian schools Highlighting the significance of sociocultural factors in educators professional practices while also illustrating the major challenges in implementing global reform agendas in diverse contexts it is a valuable resource for educators and scholars interested in development and educational reform in African contexts
