Thompson,2017-09-11 The GCC is a major player in the post 2011 reordering of the Middle East Despite the rise in prominence of individual Gulf states especially Kuwait Qatar Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates and the growth of the GCC as a collective entity surprisingly little attention has been paid to the actual mechanics of policy making in the region This book analyses the vital role that institutions are coming to play in shaping policy in the Gulf Arab states The research coincides with two key developments that have given institutions new importance in the policy process the emergence of a new generation of leaders in the Gulf and the era of low oil prices Both developments along with dramatic demographic change have compelled state and citizens to re evaluate the nature of the social contract that binds them together Contributors assess the changing relationship between state and citizen and evaluate the role that formal and informal institutions play in mediating such change and informing policy The book shows how academic social and economic institutions are responding to the increasingly complex process of decision making where citizens demand better services and further empowerment and states are obliged to seek wider counsel although wanting to retain ultimate authority With contributions from both academics and practitioners this book will be highly relevant for researchers and policymakers alike

The Eclectic review. vol. 1-New [8th] ,1812 Inventing William of Norwich Heather Blurton,2022-05-06 William of Norwich is the name of a young boy purported to have been killed by Jews in or about 1144 thus becoming the victim of the first recorded case of such a ritual murder in Western Europe and a seminal figure in the long history of antisemitism His story is first told in Thomas of Monmouth s The Life and Miracles of William of Norwich a work that elaborates the bizarre allegation invented in twelfth century England that Jews kidnapped Christian children and murdered them in memory and mockery of the crucifixion of Christ In Inventing William of Norwich Heather Blurton resituates Thomas's account by offering the first full analysis of it as a specifically literary work The second half of the twelfth century was a time of great literary innovation encompassing an efflorescence of saints' lives and historiography as well as the emergence of vernacular romance Blurton observes She examines The Life and Miracles within the framework of these new textual developments and alongside innovations in liturgical and devotional practices to argue that the origin of the ritual murder accusation is imbricated as much in literary culture as it is in the realities of Christian Jewish relations or the emergence of racially based discourses of antisemitism Resisting the urge to interpret this first narrative of the blood libel with the hindsight knowledge of later developments she considers only the period from about 1150–1200 In so doing Blurton redirects critical attention away from the social and economic history of the ritual murder accusation to the textual genres and tastes that shaped its forms and themes and provided its immediate context of reception Thomas of Monmouth's narrative in particular and the ritual murder accusation more generally were strongly shaped by literary convention
