Beyond the Final Frontier. Everything for the Theory of Everything Mihai Fătu Efori, Cristina Fătu-Hartmann, We are intelligent beings This is why we are preoccupied with these questions Who are we Where are we coming from Where are we going But besides intelligence we are endowed with yet another quality of the mind and this is why we are troubled by even more enigmatic problems Does God exist Do we humans have a soul or are we just the superior product of evolution of matter simply emerged from the Big Bang This book is a provocation set aside your intelligence for a while at least for the duration of the journey we invite you on We will travel as far as possible and surprisingly we are not going to navigate with our intelligence but with the other quality of our mind It will guide us to the last frontier of matter to the last frontier of time and to the last frontier of knowledge We will set out on this trip armed on one hand with what scientists tell us they discovered digging deep inside our universe deep inside matter and deep inside time and on the other hand also with what religion reveals for us Who is telling the truth science or religion In the end we will be surprised to find out that atheists and believers contradict each other absolutely in vain In fact they all say the exact same thing Do you think this is a paradox You are right This is what your intelligence thinks But this paradox is an impediment only for your intelligence Our skillful guide will help us overcome this apparent set back Do you want to know how Open the book

Fundamental Philosophy (Complete) Jaime Luciano Balmes,2020-09-28 We should begin the study of philosophy by examining the question of certainty before raising the edifice we must lay the foundation Ever since there has been philosophy that is ever since men first reflected on themselves and the beings around them they have been engaged with those questions which have for their object the basis of human knowledge and this shows that on this subject serious difficulties are encountered Inquirers however have not been discouraged by the sterility of philosophical labors and this shows that in the last term of the investigation an object of high importance is discovered Philosophers have cavilled in the most extravagant manner upon the questions of certainty on few subjects has the history of the human mind presented such lamentable aberrations This consideration may excite suspicion that such investigations offer nothing solid to the mind and serve only to feed the vanity of the sophist But here as elsewhere we attribute no exaggerated importance to the opinions of philosophers and we are very far from believing that they ought to be regarded as the legitimate representatives of human reason It cannot however be denied that they are in the intellectual order the most active portion of the human race When the whole body of philosophers dispute humanity itself may be said to dispute Every fact affecting the human race merits a thorough examination to undervalue it on account of the sophisms which envelop it is to fall into the worst of all sophisms There should be no contradiction between reason and common sense yet such a contradiction there would be if we should in the name of common sense condemn what occupies the reason of the most enlightened minds Oftentimes it happens that what is grave and significant that which makes a thinking man meditate is the result neither of a disputation nor of the arguments therein adduced but the simple existence of the dispute itself In itself it is sometimes of little importance but by reason of what it indicates of great consequence All philosophical questions are in some manner involved in that of certainty When we have completely unfolded this we have examined under one aspect or another all that human reason can conceive of God man and the universe At first sight it may perhaps seem to be the simple foundation of the scientific structure but in this foundation if we carefully examine it we shall see the whole edifice represented it is a plane whereon is projected visibly and in fair perspective the whole body it is to support However limited may be the direct and immediate result of these investigations they are of incalculable advantage It is highly important to acquire science but not less important to know its limits Near these limits there are shoals which the navigator ought to know It is by examining the question of certainty that we ascertain the limits of human science In descending to the depths to which these questions lead us the understanding grows dim and the heart is awed with a religious fear A moment ago we were contemplating the edifice of human knowledge and grew proud to see it with its colossal dimensions its beautiful forms its fine and bold construction we enter it and are led through deep caverns and as if by enchantment the foundation seems to be subtilized to evaporate and the superb edifice remains floating in the air

The Doctor, Etc Robert Southey, 1865 The Doctor, &c Robert Southey, 1848 The doctor, &c. Ed. by J.W. Warter Robert Southey, 1853 The Doctor & c. (Complete) Robert Southey, 2020-09-28

I was in the fourth night of the story of the Doctor and his horse and had broken it off not like Scheherezade because it was time to get up but because it was time to go to bed It was at thirty five minutes after ten o'clock on the 20th of July in the year of our Lord 1813 I finished my glass of punch tinkled the spoon against its side as if making music to my meditations and having my eyes fixed upon the Bhow Begum who was sitting opposite to me at the head of her own table I said It ought to be written in a Book There had been a heavy thunder storm in the afternoon and though the thermometer had fallen from 78 to 70 still the atmosphere was charged If that mysterious power by which the nerves convey sensation and make their impulses obeyed be as experiments seem to indicate identical with the galvanic fluid and if the galvanic and electric fluids be the same as philosophers have more than surmised and if the lungs according to a happy hypothesis elaborate for us from the light of heaven this pabulum of the brain and material essence or essential matter of genius it may be that the ethereal fire which I had inhaled so largely during the day produced the bright conception or at least impregnated and quickened the latent seed The punch reader had no share in it I had spoken as it were abstractedly and the look which accompanied the words was rather cogitative than regardant The Bhow Begum laid down her snuff box and replied entering into the feeling as well as echoing the words It ought to be written in a book certainly it ought They may talk as they will of the dead languages Our auxiliary verbs give us a power which the ancients with all their varieties of mood and inflections of tense never could attain It must be written in a book said I encouraged by her manner The mood was the same the tense was the same but the gradation of meaning was marked in a way which a Greek or Latin grammarian might have envied as well as admired Pshaw nonsense stuff said my wife's eldest sister who was sitting at the right hand of the Bhow Begum I say write it in a book

indeed My wife s youngest sister was sitting diagonally opposite to the last speaker she lifted up her eyes and smiled It was a smile which expressed the same opinion as the late vituperative tones there was as much of incredulity in it but more of wonder and less of vehemence My wife was at my left hand making a cap for her youngest daughter and with her tortoiseshell paper work box before her I turned towards her and repeated the words It must be written in a book But I smiled while I was speaking and was conscious of that sort of meaning in my eyes which calls out contradiction for the pleasure of sporting with it Write it in a book she replied I am sure you wo nt and she looked at me with a frown Poets have written much upon their ladies frowns but I do not remember that they have ever described the thing with much accuracy When my wife frowns two perpendicular wrinkles each three quarters of an inch in length are formed in the forehead the base of each resting upon the top of the nose and equi distant from each other The poets have also attributed dreadful effects to the frown of those whom they love I cannot say that I ever experienced any thing very formidable in my wife s At present she knew her eyes would give the lie to it if they looked at me steadily for a moment so they wheeled to the left about quick off at a tangent in a direction to the Bhow Begum and then she smiled She could not prevent the smile but she tried to make it scornful My wife s nephew was sitting diagonally with her and opposite his mother on the left hand of the Bhow Begum Oh he exclaimed it ought to be written in a book it will be a glorious book write it uncle I beseech you My wife s nephew is a sensible lad He reads my writings likes my stories admires my singing and thinks as I do in politics a youth of parts and considerable promise
