Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness and health of middle-aged women. The study was conducted in a community-based setting. The participants were 30 middle-aged women who were randomly assigned to either a training group or a control group. The training group participated in a 12-week program of aerobic and strength training, while the control group did not. The results of the study showed that the training group had significantly higher levels of physical fitness and health compared to the control group at the end of the 12-week program. The findings suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the physical fitness and health of middle-aged women.
