UNIT 3: CULTURAL PATTERNS AND PROCESSES

Cultural landscapes are combinations of physical features, agricultural and industrial practices, religious and linguistic characteristics, evidence of recurrent occupations, and other expressions of culture (including traditional and postmodern architecture and land use patterns).

Attitudes toward ethnicity and gender, including the role of women in the workforce, ethnic neighborhoods, and religious communities and trends help shape the use of space in a given way.

- Cultural landscapes patterns:
 - Built environment
 - Evidence of recurrent human activities and cultural movement
 - The built environment as the physical manifestation of the cultural process
- Expressions of culture in the built environment:
 - Physical features: natural features and built environment that reflect religion
 - Agriculture and related practices
 - Religious practices and places of worship: religious landscape
 - Language: evidence of linguistic features: English and the world
 - Ethnicity: ethnicity, race, and religious communities shape the cultural landscape
- Ethnic neighborhoods: trends that suggest that an area can be occupied by different groups of people, and each group of people tends to reside in its own territory, often the same group tends to reside in the same territory

Language, ethnicity and identity contribute to a sense of place, shape the global cultural landscape.

Language, ethnicity and religion are factors creating centrifugal and centripetal forces.

- Centrifugal forces that pull people apart:
 - Ethnic differences: differences in language and culture create centrifugal forces
- Centripetal forces that pull people together:
 - Language: language, ethnicity, religion can be centripetal forces

Language	Religion	Ethnicity
Language	Religion	Ethnicity
• Spanish in Spain, Central America, and Latin America	• Catholicism in Spain, Central America, and Latin America	• Spanish in Spain, Central America, and Latin America
• English in the United Kingdom, the United States, and other English-speaking countries	• Christianity in the United Kingdom, the United States, and other English-speaking countries	• English in the United Kingdom, the United States, and other English-speaking countries

Religion and expression - including religious, geographical, and ethnic expression - are types of differences.

Differences among people in a culture include: religion, ethnicity, and expression.

- Religion: different groups of people have different religious beliefs and practices.
- Ethnicity: different groups of people have different ethnic identities and practices.
- Expression: different groups of people have different expressions of their culture.

Interactions between and among cultural traits and larger global forces can lead to new forms of cultural expression, for example, globalization and digital media.

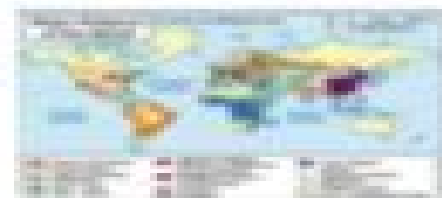

- Globalization: refers to the process by which economic, cultural, and other systems of different cultures are integrated into a single system.
- Digital media: refers to the use of digital technology to create and share information.

Globalization, immigration and trade helped to shape patterns and practices of culture.

- Globalization and immigration: refers to the process by which economic, cultural, and other systems of different cultures are integrated into a single system.
- Trade: refers to the exchange of goods and services between different cultures.

- Globalization and immigration: refers to the process by which economic, cultural, and other systems of different cultures are integrated into a single system.
