These experimental observations are consistent with a mechanism involving the formation of a complex between the polymer and the monomer. The complex is formed by the interaction of the polymer with the monomer, and the complex is then broken down by the addition of a catalyst. The catalyst is then used to initiate the polymerization of the monomer. The polymerization of the monomer is then completed by the addition of a terminator. The terminator is then used to stop the polymerization of the monomer. The polymerization of the monomer is then completed by the addition of a terminator. The terminator is then used to stop the polymerization of the monomer.
