Abstract. The authors study the asymptotic behaviour of the q -analogue of the h -th order statistic of n independent and identically distributed random variables with a continuous distribution function. The limit distribution is obtained for the case of a continuous distribution function with a bounded density function. The asymptotic behaviour of the q -analogue of the h -th order statistic of n independent and identically distributed random variables with a continuous distribution function is also studied for the case of a continuous distribution function with an unbounded density function.
