Information Technology Usage in Metro Manila Public and Private Schools Maria Rodrigo, 2003-04-14 Both public and private schools in the Philippines are using information technology IT as a tool to improve teaching and learning While both government and private sector initiatives indicate national commitment to IT in education there is little up to date information on how extensively the Philippines are using computers and for what purposes The researcher s goals were to determine the extent to which Metro Manila public and private schools used IT and to determine how these results compared with analogous data on schools in other developing and developed countries The researcher gathered data with mail in questionnaires adapted from the International Association for the Evaluation of Educational Achievement IEA onsite visits and follow up telephone interviews The researcher also compared her results with those from IEA surveyed countries The researcher determined that actual uses of IT did not meet schools curricular goals Although school officials wanted IT to individualize instruction promote active learning and improve student achievement in actual practice schools used computers to teach computer literacy productivity tools and programming In terms of infrastructure the researcher found that schools in Metro Manila had the poorest student to computer ratio in comparison to schools in IEA surveyed countries Metro Manila students access to peripherals was also poor Software selections were limited to productivity tools Students in Metro Manila primary schools like their counterparts in IEA surveyed countries had limited Internet access A comparison of results from public and private schools revealed that public and private schools shared many educational goals regarding the use of IT However the realization of these goals was uneven Private schools had been using computers for a greater number of years than public schools Private schools had lower student to computer and student to printer ratios They also had greater Internet access Furthermore private schools tended to expose their students to computers at practically all educational levels The study provided baseline data that was not previously available The researcher identifies the need for similar studies with greater geographic scope or of a longitudinal nature deeper investigations of curricular gaps or policy issues and the development of instructional software for Filipino specific subject areas

Design Joseph Paul Arnold,Edward T. Ferguson,1973 Power and Moral Education in China Wangbei Ye,2014-04-15 Chinese moral education reform in the last three decades represents the most significant decentralization of decision making power since the foundation of People s Republic of China in 1949 On one hand it shows how de politicized China s moral education curriculum has become following the introduction of China s Open door policy and economic reforms and the resultant social transformations On the other hand it reveals persistent problems in moral education caused by political stresses and tight state control To explain these tensions Power and Moral Education in China analyzes the characteristics of power relationships in school moral education curriculum goal setting content and pedagogy selection and implementation The ultimate purpose is to identify not only what factors impact Chinese moral education curriculum decision making at the school level but also how and why Through a multiple case study conducted during 2008 in three schools in Shenzhen City and based on four major data collection instruments observation interview questionnaire and document review Wangbei Ye analyzes how power relationships have evolved in school moral education and how and why school power affects school moral education Contrary to the common belief that Chinese schools are passively impacted by external forces in moral education curriculum development this book suggests that school power is a semi emancipatory relationship that acts as a major force shaping moral education This means that although both the Chinese Communist Party and the state are positioned to control schools and moral education schools nonetheless have the power to either negotiate for more influence or partly emancipate themselves by collaborating with other external forces responding to grass root needs empowering school teachers and adjusting internal school management style This helps to explain the influence of Chinese schools in moral education and suggests a broader theory of power relationships in curriculum Resources in Education ,1999-04

English in Use Iii , School-to-School Collaboration Enhancing Teaching Guangbao Fang,2025-07-11 In an era where educational disparity poses a significant challenge this book explores the transformative power of school to school collaboration through the development of the Education Group in China The chapters cover one of the critical forms of school to school collaboration in China the Education Group which was adopted to address the educational gaps among schools and between regions Through an in depth case study of education groups the book unveils how these collaborations serve as a strategic tool to enhance teaching quality and bridge the education divide With a focus on the intricacies of implementation strategies and the multifaceted impacts on teachers the case study offers a comprehensive look into the mechanics and outcomes of educational groups in China With special attention paid to this form of school to school collaboration the book debates how it influences teachers in China applying both the organisational neo institutionalism theory and the network governance theory to assess the developing trajectory of the education group in China and investigate its impact on teachers This book is an essential resource for academics and students in the field of educational sciences who are interested in the impact of policy and collaboration on teaching quality It is also a viable resource for teachers and school leaders looking for actionable strategies to enhance collaborative efforts
