teacher educators and students of music education      Music's Immanent Future Sally Macarthur, Judy Lochhead, Jennifer Shaw, 2016-05-12 The conversations generated by the chapters in Music's Immanent Future grapple with some of music's paradoxes that music of the Western art canon is viewed as timeless and universal while other kinds of music are seen as transitory and ephemeral that in order to make sense of music we need descriptive language that to open up the new in music we need to revisit the old that to arrive at a figuration of music itself we need to posit its starting point in noise that in order to justify our creative compositional works as research we need to find critical languages and theoretical frameworks with which to discuss them or that despite being an auditory system we are compelled to resort to the visual metaphor as a way of thinking about musical sounds Drawn to musical sound as a powerful form of non verbal communication the authors include musicologists philosophers music theorists ethnomusicologists and composers The chapters in this volume investigate and ask fundamental questions about how we think converse write about compose listen to and analyse music The work is informed by the philosophy primarily of Gilles Deleuze and Felix Guattari and secondarily of Michel Foucault Julia Kristeva and Jean Luc Nancy The chapters cover a wide range of topics focused on twentieth and twenty first century musics covering popular musics art music acousmatic music and electro acoustic musics and including music analysis music's ontology the noise music dichotomy intertextuality and music listening ethnography and the current state of music studies The authors discuss their philosophical perspectives and methodologies of practice led research including their own creative work as a form of research Music's Immanent Future brings together empirical cultural philosophical and creative approaches that will be of interest to musicologists composers music analysts and music philosophers      Trauma-Informed Pedagogy and the Post-Secondary Music Class Kimber Andrews, Kristy Swift, 2025-03-28 Trauma Informed Pedagogy and the Post Secondary Music Class explores the theory and practice of teaching and learning in a traumatized world and aims to support instructors in guiding students and walking with them through challenges that impact learning With analysis contextualized within definitions of trauma critical theoretical trauma studies and clinical understandings of the causes and effects of trauma on the brain and nervous system the book offers ways to empower faculty and students to build classrooms where it is safe enough to address the stress and trauma of learning Bringing together a unique multidisciplinary group of contributors this book includes perspectives from both music faculty and mental health counseling specialists The volume engages music scholars and educators in higher education with scholarship on trauma informed pedagogy provides examples of how to introduce trauma informed practices into music courses explores how trauma informed practices can increase both faculty and student well being and offers practical materials such as syllabi and assignments that instructors can implement in their classes Reaching across disciplinary boundaries to contribute to an emerging body of research teaching and learning this is a vital collection for educators across music higher education      Journal of Music Theory Pedagogy ,2011

Expanding the Canon Melissa Hoag, 2022-12-30 Directly addressing the underrepresentation of Black composers in core music curricula Expanding the Canon Black Composers in the Music Theory Classroom aims to both demonstrate why diversification is badly needed and help faculty expand their teaching with practical classroom oriented lesson plans that focus on teaching music theory with music by Black composers This collection of 21 chapters is loosely arranged to resemble a typical music theory curriculum with topics progressing from basic to advanced and moving from fundamentals diatonic harmony and chromatic harmony to form popular music and music of the twentieth and twenty first centuries Some chapters focus on segments of the traditional music theory sequence while others consider a single style or composer Contributors address both methods to incorporate the music of Black composers into familiar topics and ways to rethink and expand the purview of the music theory curriculum A foreword by Philip Ewell and an introductory narrative by Teresa L Reed describing her experiences as an African American student of music set the volume in wider context Incorporating a wide range of examples by composers across classical jazz and popular genres this book helps bring the rich and varied body of music by Black composers into the core of music theory pedagogy and offers a vital resource for all faculty teaching music theory and analysis
