La Famille Frank:

The First Women Lawyers Mary Jane Mossman, 2006-05-31 This comparative study explores the lives of some of the women who first initiated challenges to male exclusivity in the legal professions in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Their challenges took place at a time of considerable optimism about progressive societal change including new and expanding opportunities for women as well as a variety of proposals for reforming law, legal education and standards of legal professionalism. By situating women's claims for admission to the bar within this reformist context in different jurisdictions, the study examines the intersection of historical ideas about gender and about legal professionalism at the turn of the twentieth century. In exploring these systemic issues, the study also provides detailed examinations of the lives of some of the first women lawyers in six jurisdictions: the United States, Canada, Britain, New Zealand and Australia, India and western Europe. In exploring how individual women adopted different legal arguments in litigated cases or devised particular strategies to overcome barriers to professional work, the study assesses how shifting and contested ideas about gender and about legal professionalism shaped women's opportunities and choices as well as both support for and opposition to their claims. As a comparative study of the first women lawyers in several different jurisdictions, the book reveals how a number of quite different women engaged with ideas of gender and legal professionalism at the turn of the twentieth century.

Shipwreck in French Renaissance Writing Jennifer H. Oliver, 2019-08-29 In the sixteenth century, a period of proliferating transatlantic travel and exploration and latterly religious civil wars in France, the ship is freighted with political and religious as well as poetic significance, symbolism that reaches its height when ships both real and symbolic are threatened with disaster. The Direful Spectacle argues that in the French Renaissance, shipwreck functions not only as an emblem or motif within writing but as a part or the whole of a narrative in which the dynamics of spectatorship and of co-operation are of constant concern. The possibility of ethical distance from shipwreck, imagined through the Lucretian suave mari magno, commonplace is constantly undermined, not least through a sustained focus on the corporeal. This book examines the ways in which the ship and the body are made analogous in Renaissance shipwreck writing: bodies are described and allegorized in nautical terms and conversely ships themselves become animalized and humanized. Secondly, many texts anticipate that the description of shipwreck will have an affect not only on its victims but on those too of spectators, listeners and readers. This insistence on the physicality of shipwreck is also reflected in the dynamic of bricolage that informs the production of shipwreck texts in the Renaissance. The dramatic potential of both the disaster and the process of rebuilding is exploited throughout the century, culminating in a shipwreck tragedy. By the late Renaissance, shipwreck is not only the end but often forms the beginning of a story.
