After the rectus fascia is opened, the rectus muscles are separated and dissected off the peritoneum. If the rectus muscles cannot be separated sufficiently by lateral retraction, they should be transected. In general, the muscles are easier to separate in patients who have had a previous term pregnancy. In some patients with strong, tight rectus muscles, adequate exposure may not be achieved without transection of the muscle. If the muscle is to be transected, the inferior epigastric artery and vein on the lateral border of the muscle must be clamped, incised, and ligated prior to cutting the muscle.
