articulations of the Others in modern Shi'ism as a novel way to examine the formulation of modern Shi'i identity and place in the world. Among these others which have transformed into enemies in the modern period are the West, apostates, Wahhabism, Jews, Baha'is and feminism. Looking at the rhetorical themes that Shi'i writers use, the book demonstrates the contrast between the collective positive 'We' and the negative threatening 'Other' as a major principle in the evolution of Shi'ism as the minority branch of Islam. It offers a complex view of Shi'i identity combining a sense of victimhood and insecurity together with conviction of intellectual and moral superiority and long-term triumph.

Hannah More in Context Kerri Andrews, Sue Edney, 2022-01-13. This book relocates the long life and literary career of the poet, playwright, novelist, philanthropist and teacher Hannah More (1745-1833) in the wider social and cultural contexts that shaped her and which she helped shape in turn. One of the most influential writers and campaigners of the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries, More's reputation has suffered unfairly from accusations of paternalism and provincialism and misunderstandings of her sincerely held but now increasingly unfamiliar evangelical beliefs. Now in this book, readers can explore a range of essays rooted in up-to-the-minute research which examines newly recovered archival materials and other evidence in order to present the fullest picture yet of this complex and compelling author and the era she helped mould with her words.

Insecure Guardians Zoha Waseem, 2022-08-19. The police force is one of the most distrusted institutions in Pakistan, notorious for its corruption and brutality. In both colonial and postcolonial contexts, directives to confront security threats have empowered law enforcement agents while the lack of adequate reform has upheld institutional weaknesses. This exploration of policing in Karachi, Pakistan's largest city and financial capital, reveals many colonial continuities. Both civilian and military regimes continue to ensure the suppression of the policed via this institution itself established to militarily subjugate and exploit in the interests of the ruling class. However, contemporary policing practice is not a simple product of its colonial heritage; it has also evolved to confront new challenges and political realities. Based on extensive fieldwork and around 200 interviews, this ethnographic study reveals a distinctly postcolonial condition of policing. Mutually reinforcing phenomena of militarisation and informality have been exacerbated by an insecure state that routinely conflates combatting crime, maintaining public order and ensuring national security. This is evident not only in spectacular displays of violence and malpractice but also in police officers' routine work. Caught in the middle of the country's armed conflicts, their encounters with both state and society are a story of insecurity and uncertainty.
