Abstract : This paper examines internet addiction from the perspective of consumer studies. Internet addiction could be an interesting issue for consumer studies because it is a sort of consumer behavior that has drawn a lot of social concerns in rapidly informatized era. First, the paper explores the status quo of internet addiction in Korea through the analysis of a questionnaire survey. Secondly, it explains causes of internet addiction focusing on alienation in addition to personality and demographic factors. Thirdly, it describes the characteristics of the behavior of internet-addictive users clustered by internet addiction degree. Based on these descriptions and analyses, the study provides suggestions for establishing more effective consumer policies and educational programs to help limit the growth of internet addiction.

Key Words : internet addiction, alienation, addictive consumption

I. INTRODUCTION

The number of internet users is increasing dramatically. As of December, 2002, about 665 million people uses the internet (eTForcasts; quoted from Chosunilbo, 2002). In Korea, the sixth largest internet country in the world, the number of internet users is up to 26.9 million, nearly 60% of the entire population. Obviously, these numbers suggest that the internet has

Internet Addiction Test (IAT) Kimberly Young, Ph.D.,2016-12-01 While the Internet is a relatively new technology that has impacted the world and provided many benefits it has also had negative ramifications Individuals unable to control their use are jeopardizing school employment and relationships The concept of Internet Addiction is used to explain uncontrollable damaging use of technology It is characterized as an impulse control disorder comparable to pathological gambling because of overlapping diagnostic criteria and symptomatology Based on these studies the IAT was constructed to capture the problematic behavior associated with compulsive use of technology including online porn internet gambling and compulsive use of online games and social media The Internet Addiction Test emerged as the first validated measure of Internet and technology addiction The assessments can be administered in a variety of mental health settings including private practice clinics schools hospitals and residential programs They can be used when there is suspicion of Internet addiction as part of a broad intake assessment or for use in a wellness curriculum to help participants evaluate their own Internet behavior The IAT can also be a valuable pre employment screening device to detect internet addiction among job candidates to improve productivity and reduce corporate liability Based on 20 self report items the IAT assesses for the presence of addiction to the Internet electronic entertainment social media and general use of electronic devices and also measures the severity of addiction in terms of mild moderate or severe Furthermore because Internet addiction may be driven by different reasons and manifest in different ways requiring different types of treatment the IAT produces scores related to the following areas
