The Sign Language Interpreting Studies Reader Cynthia B.

Roy,Jemina Napier,2015-07-15 In Sign Language Interpreting SLI there is a great need for a volume devoted to classic and seminal articles and essays dedicated to this specific domain of language interpreting Students educators and practitioners will benefit from having access to a collection of historical and influential articles that contributed to the progress of the global SLI profession In SLI there is a long history of outstanding research and scholarship much of which is now out of print or was published in obscure journals or featured in publications that are no longer in print These readings are significant to the progression of SLI as an academic discipline and a profession As the years have gone by many of these readings have been lost to students educators and practitioners because they are difficult to locate or unavailable or because this audience simply does not know they exist This volume brings together the seminal texts in our field that document the philosophical evidence based and analytical progression of SLI work

Corpora in Interpreting Studies Andrew K.F. Cheung,Kanglong Liu,Riccardo Moratto,2023-12-01 Cheung Liu Moratto and their contributors examine how corpora can be effectively harnessed to benefit interpreting practice and research in East Asian settings In comparison to the achievements made in the field of corpus based translation studies the use of corpora in interpreting is not comparable in terms of scope methods and agenda One of the predicaments that hampers this line of inquiry is the lack of systematic corpora to document spoken language This issue is even more pronounced when dealing with East Asian languages such as Chinese Japanese and Korean which are typologically different from European languages As language plays a pivotal role in interpreting research the use of corpora in interpreting within East Asian contexts has its own distinct characteristics as well as methodological constraints and concerns However it also generates new insights and findings that can significantly advance this research field A valuable resource for scholars of scholars focusing on corpus interpreting particularly those dealing with East Asian languages

Common Law in an Uncommon Courtroom Eva N.S. Ng,2018-11-15 This book takes you into a common law courtroom which is in no way similar to any other courtroom where common law is practised This uniqueness is characterised in particular by the use of English as the trial language in a predominantly Cantonese speaking society and by the presence of other bilinguals in court thus presenting specific challenges for the interpreters who work in it and at times rendering the interpretation service superfluous This study inter alia problematises judges intervention in the court proceedings Chinese witnesses testifying in English as well as English language trials heard by Chinese jurors It demonstrates how the use of chuchotage proves to be inadequate and inappropriate in the Hong Kong courtroom where interpreting in an English language trial is arguably provided to cater for the need of the linguistic majority This book is useful to interpreters language educators legal professionals forensic linguists and policy makers alike
