Kuřerová,2020-07-01 This book provides authentic accounts of the effects of the revolutionary political reform experienced in the past half century on education in Europe s considerable rural hinterland These reforms include the liberation of the Baltic and Eastern European states from Soviet communist domination the eurozone economic crises and the current and future migration of people fleeing war and poverty from the Middle East and Africa Overshadowing these events are so called global forces which champion economies of scale and pressurize academic performance as keys to economic success Trapped in this distal whirlwind of change are 1000s of small and or rural elementary schools and the life chances of more 1000s of young children The research presented here unveils the unseen and under reported consequences of top down urban oriented educational policies on children s and communities experience of place and space Exposure of these conditions in rural Europe is long overdue but obscured for decades by political extremes of left and right Yet the lived reality of peremptory and swathing school closure programmes and poverty inflicted on rural populations in parts of Eastern Europe is relatively unreported in the western educational literature a situation exacerbated by the virtual invisibility of rural educational research generally The chapters in this book reveal the insights of social science scholars from 11 European countries including those from low GDP formerly soviet bloc countries recently enabled to present their research at western European conferences such as the European Educational Research Association. Their research will inform and alert education academics, researchers and professionals to these rural European educational contexts. The research methodologies reported are diverse and innovative. The national context chapters are complemented by overview chapters which survey and synthesise i) definitions and conceptualisations of rural ii) pan-European appraisal of educational structural and geospatial statistics on small and rural schools and iii) identify key messages for better understanding of the rural situation in European research policy and practice. Crucially, despite the gloom, the authors report positive strategies for rural school survival at governmental and/or school and community levels that include community involvement, rural educational tourism and deliberative inter-community school network planning.

Anthropology of Tobacco Andrew Russell, 2019-03-04 Tobacco has become one of the most widely used and traded commodities on the planet. Reflecting contemporary anthropological interest in material culture studies, Anthropology of Tobacco makes the plant the centre of its own contentious global story in which, instead of a passive commodity, tobacco becomes a powerful player in a global adventure involving people, corporations and public health. Bringing together a range of perspectives from the social and natural sciences as well as the arts and humanities, Anthropology of Tobacco weaves stories together from a range of historical, cross-cultural and literary sources and empirical research. These combine with contemporary anthropological theories of agency and cross-species relationships to offer fresh perspectives on how an apparently humble plant has progressed to world domination and the consequences of it having done so. It also considers what needs to happen if, as some public health advocates would have it, we are seriously to imagine a world without tobacco. This book presents students, scholars and practitioners in anthropology, public health and social policy with unique and multiple perspectives on tobacco-human relations.

Population Growth and Rapid Urbanization in the Developing World Benna, Umar G., Garba, Shaibu Bala, 2016-06-07 As the global population continues to boom, particularly in the developing countries, it has become necessary to find ways to handle this increase through various policy tools that address population growth and urbanization problems. The urbanization process has both potentials, issues as well as opportunities to move societies forward that need to be exploited. Population Growth and Rapid Urbanization in the Developing World examines trends, challenges, issues and strategies adopted by developing countries in the face of population growth and rapid urbanization and its impact on urban environments. The book explores patterns of population growth and urbanization, use of different governance approaches in addressing challenges as well as different tools and systems of appropriate allocation to address issues. The book is a comprehensive reference for academicians, students, practitioners, professionals, managers, urban planners and government officials.

Food Insecurity Tamar Mayer, Molly D. Anderson, 2020-07-23 This book explores the experiences, causes and consequences of food insecurity in different geographical regions and historical eras. It highlights collective and political actions aimed at food sovereignty as solutions to mitigate suffering. Despite global efforts to end hunger, it persists and has even increased in some regions This book provides interdisciplinary and historical perspectives on the manifestations of food insecurity with case studies illustrating how people coped with violations of their rights during the war time deprivation in France the neoliberal incursions on food supply in Turkey Greece and Nicaragua as well as the consequences of radioactive contamination of farmland in Japan This edited collection adopts an analytical approach to understanding food insecurity by examining how the historical and political situations in different countries have resulted in an unfolding dialectic of food insecurity and resistance with the most marginalized people immigrants those in refugee camps poor peasants and so forth consistently suffering the worst effects yet still maintaining agency to fight back The book tackles food insecurity on a local as well as a global scale and will thus be useful for a broad range of audiences including students scholars and the general public interested in studying food crises globalization and current global issues Human-Computer Interaction.

Interaction Contexts Masaaki Kurosu, 2017-06-28 The two volume set LNCS 10271 and 10272 constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 19th International Conference on Human Computer Interaction HCII 2017 held in Vancouver BC Canada in July 2017 The total of 1228 papers presented at the 15 colocated HCII 2017 conferences was carefully reviewed and selected from 4340 submissions The papers address the latest research and development efforts and highlight the human aspects of design and use of computing systems They cover the entire field of Human Computer Interaction addressing major advances in knowledge and effective use of computers in a variety of application areas The papers included in this volume cover the following topics games in HCI mobile and wearable interaction HCI children and learning and HCI in complex human environments The Cambridge Handbook of Social Problems: A. Javier Treviño, 2018-03-22 The introduction of the Affordable Care Act in the United States the increasing use of prescription drugs and the alleged abuse of racial profiling by police are just some of the factors contributing to twenty first century social problems The Cambridge Handbook of Social Problems offers a wide ranging roster of the social problems currently pressing for attention and amelioration Unlike other works in this area it also gives great consideration to theoretical and methodological discussions This Handbook will benefit both undergraduate and graduate students eager to understand the sociology of social problems It is suitable for classes in social problems current events and social theory Featuring the most current research the Handbook provides an especially useful resource for sociologists and graduate students conducting research Reconceptualizing Securitization in Afghanistan Arif Sahar, Christian Kaunert, 2024-12-09 This book analyses the securitization of ethnic identities and social groups by the state in Afghanistan in the post 2001 context Securitization is arguably the most successful theoretical framework to analyse security beyond the military confines Yet despite its broadening agenda the securitization framework has been accused of a Western bias This book analyses the extent and the modalities and practices of the securitization of ethnic identities and social groups e g women by the state in Afghanistan post 2001 which is especially relevant following the takeover by the Taliban in August 2021 It puts forward a more nuanced argument by analytically distinguishing and empirically testing state policies practices and perspectives on ethnic and social groups that are largely informed by the fear and legacies of civil war 1978 2001 The work argues that the traditional lack of a stable state identity that could function as a basis for ontological security in Afghanistan has resulted in a persistent state of fragility exacerbated by the legacies and fears of civil war that have had a direct impact on the development of the state's perspectives on ethnic and social groups Whilst the state does not necessarily indulge in explicit securitization practices and discourses securitization often takes place through implicit activities to undermine ethnic and social groups ability to enter political economic and socio cultural competitions fairly and equitably which would in turn enable these groups to challenge the state The securitization process therefore has had an impact on the ability of these groups to benefit from opportunities fairly and equitably This book will be of much interest to students of critical security studies statebuilding Asian politics and International Relations in general

Sites Unseen Scott Frickel, James R. Elliott, 2018-07-03 Winner of the 2020 Robert E Park Award for Best Book from the Community and Urban Sociology Section of the American Sociological Association From a dive bar in New Orleans to a leafy residential street in Minneapolis many establishments and homes in cities across the nation share a troubling and largely invisible past they were once sites of industrial manufacturers such as plastics factories or machine shops that likely left behind carcinogens and other hazardous industrial byproducts In Sites Unseen sociologists Scott Frickel and James Elliott uncover the hidden histories of these sites to show how they are regularly produced and reincorporated into urban landscapes with limited or no regulatory oversight By revealing this legacy of our industrial past Sites Unseen spotlights how city making has become an ongoing process of social and environmental transformation and risk containment To demonstrate these dynamics Frickel and Elliott investigate four very different cities New Orleans Minneapolis Philadelphia and Portland Oregon Using original data assembled and mapped for thousands of former manufacturers locations dating back to the 1950s they find that more than 90 percent of such sites have now been converted to urban amenities such as parks homes and storefronts with almost no environmental review And because manufacturers tend to open plants on new non industrial lots rather than on lots previously occupied by other manufacturers associated hazards continue to spread relatively unabated As they do residential turnover driven by gentrification and the rising costs of urban living further obscure these sites from residents and regulatory agencies alike Frickel and Elliott show that these hidden processes have serious consequences for city dwellers While minority and working class neighborhoods are still more likely to attract hazardous manufacturers rapid turnover in cities means that whites and middle income groups also face increased risk Since government agencies prioritize managing polluted sites that are highly visible or politically expedient many former manufacturing sites that now have other uses remain invisible To address these oversights the authors advocate creating new municipal databases that identify previously undocumented manufacturing sites as potential environmental hazards They also suggest that legislation limiting urban sprawl might reduce the flow of hazardous materials beyond certain boundaries A wide ranging synthesis of urban and environmental scholarship Sites Unseen shows that creating sustainable cities requires deep engagement with industrial history as well as with the social and regulatory processes that continue to remake urban areas through time A Volume in the American Sociological Association's Rose Series in Sociology Inclusive Transport Hans Jeekel, 2018-10-29 Inclusive Transport Fighting Involuntary Transport Disadvantages offers readers profound and multifaceted insights into transportation and social equity guiding transportation and urban studies researchers planners and policy makers in evaluating potential solutions to this complex issue It considers discrimination and its societal consequences providing a needed perspective on who is left out of transportation planning and why The book is systematically divided into 2 parts Part A is problem oriented and explores the main problems to the transportation disadvantaged accessibility and affordability It looks at the consequences of non accessibility the problems non car owners face and the interplay between housing and transportation Part B is policy oriented and analyses how current policies tend to forget transport disadvantages It looks at pragmatic solutions for transport disadvantaged and ends with a design for inclusive transport being a more radical approach combining sustainability challenges people's behaviours and emotions creating more just and equitable mobility Synthesizes academic research and narratives on transport disadvantage and the transport disadvantaged linking the research with current mobility policies and practices Connects the fight on transport disadvantages with sustainable and smart mobility strategies and looks into car sharing ride sharing and individualising public transport while de individualizing car use Has an extensive usage of data figures and examples from around the world and inspiring mobility plans and policies
