story of Indigenous leaders who wrote their principles into Spanish and English law While in the Spanish Empire Natives were a recognized part of la rep blica de indios the republic of Indians other Natives across the early American South understood themselves to be joined with European colonists in larger polities each jealously guarding their own bodies of liberties under royal sanction Thus rather than simply rejecting European pretensions to rule them as subjects and vassals Native Southerners as diverse as the Apalachees Pamunkeys Powhatans and Timucuas redefined their status to become political players in legislative assemblies and the courts of distant monarchs They pushed for incorporation in larger political systems in which they had a say and were themselves instrumental in creating Adapting pre invasion practices to the technology of writing and the challenges of colonialism Indigenous petitioners sought exemptions from labor and protection for the lands that God gave to them as well as the right to install preferred leaders avoid enslavement ally with the Crown against colonists ease harsh colonial laws and even amend the terms of treaties and compacts Bradley J Dixon shows how their petitions also stand as enduring contributions to American political thought and how it was these vassals and subjects who gave meaning to the modern idea of tribal sovereignty In the South the Spanish and English empires came to resemble one another precisely because they were both dependent to a remarkable degree on maintaining Indigenous political consent and were founded in large part on Indigenous conceptions of law
