Maria José Botelho, Masha Kabakow Rudman, 2009-05-07 Children's literature is a contested terrain as is multicultural education. Taken together they pose a formidable challenge to both classroom teachers and academics. Rather than deny the inherent conflicts and tensions in the field in Critical Multicultural Analysis of Children's Literature: Mirrors, Windows, and Doors, Maria José Botelho and Masha Kabakow Rudman confront, deconstruct, and reconstruct these terrains by proposing a reframing of the field. Surely all of us children's teachers and academics can benefit from this more expansive understanding of what it means to read books. Sonia Nieto, From the Foreword. Critical multicultural analysis provides a philosophical shift for teaching literature, constructing curriculum, and taking up issues of diversity and social justice. It problematizes children's literature, offers a way of reading power, explores the complex web of sociopolitical relations, and deconstructs taken-for-granted assumptions about language, meaning, reading, and literature. It is literary study as sociopolitical change. Bringing a critical lens to the study of multiculturalism in children's literature, this book prepares teachers, teacher educators, and researchers of children's literature to analyze the ideological dimensions of reading and studying literature. Each chapter includes recommendations for classroom application, classroom research, and further reading. Helpful end-of-book appendices include a list of children's book awards, lists of publishers, diagrams of the power continuum, and the theoretical framework of critical multicultural analysis, and lists of selected children's literature journals and online resources. Standards-Based Lesson Plans for the Busy Elementary School Librarian

Joyce Keeling, 2017-04-17 This helpful resource provides all new, tested, standard-based lessons accompanied by reproducible handouts and easy-to-follow directions. A new book by Joyce Keeling, an elementary librarian and teacher with more than two decades of experience, Standards-Based Lesson Plans for the Busy Elementary School Librarian presents many integrated lesson plans for students in each of the elementary grades: kindergarten through 5th grade. All lessons have been tested and refined in a school setting, and they are specifically written to match the AASL Information Literacy Standards, the McREL Compendium of Standards and Benchmarks, and the Common Core State Standards. In addition to the reproducible lesson plan worksheets, the book offers in-depth discussion of how best to collaborate to teach information literacy within the scope of common elementary school curricula. Black

Communications and Learning to Read Terry Meier, 2020-08-19 This book is about effective literacy instruction for students in grades K-4 who use the language variety that many linguists call African American English, but which, as explained in the Introduction, the author calls Black Communications (BC). Throughout, considerable attention is given to discussing the integral and complex interconnections among African American language, culture, and history, drawing significantly on examples from African American historical and literary sources. Although it is theoretical in its description of the BC system and its discussion of research on language socialization in African American communities, the major focus of this book is pedagogy. Many concrete examples of successful classroom practices are included so that teachers can readily visualize and use the strategies and principles presented. Part I, What is Black Communications, presents an overview of the

BC system providing a basic introduction to the major components of the language phonology grammar lexicon and pragmatics and illustrating how these components work in synchrony to create a coherent whole Part II Language Socialization in the African American Discourse Community examines existing research on African American children s language socialization Part III Using African American Children s Literature draws connections between strategy instruction and the linguistic and rhetorical abilities discussed in Part II Each chapter ends with suggestions for using African American literature to help children develop their speaking and writing abilities Part IV Children Using Language moves from a focus on teaching comprehension strategies to helping BC speakers learn to decode text This volume is directed to researchers faculty and graduate students in the fields of language and literacy education and linguistics and is well suited as a text for graduate level courses in these areas
