Kinns Chapter 13:

The World of Visual Time Signals for Mariners Roger Kinns, 2024-11-18 This book describes the worldwide evolution of land based visual time signals that were used by mariners in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries for accurate navigation at sea They followed development of chronometers which were carried in ships to show mean time at Greenwich the chosen prime meridian Greenwich time could be compared with local astronomical time to determine longitude but chronometers were mechanical devices that had to be checked for accuracy Land based signals that were regulated by astronomical observations evolved from the ideas in 1818 of Robert Wauchope a British naval officer who served at the Cape of Good Hope He inspired introduction of time balls specifically the time ball at Greenwich in 1833 which set the standard for subsequent installations and is still in operation today The main emphasis is on the external appearance of time signals at different locations around the world and how they were used by mariners for rating chronometers Time balls and guns also became popular signals for public use and workplace control but then had social and political implications

Moore, 1981-10-30 The Post Darwinian Controversies offers an original interpretation of Protestant responses to Darwin after 1870 viewing them in a transatlantic perspective and as a constitutive part of the history of post Darwinian evolutionary thought The impact of evolutionary theory on the religious consciousness of the nineteenth century has commonly been seen in terms of a conflict or warfare between science and theology Dr Moore s account begins by discussing the polemical origins and baneful effects of the military metaphor and this leads to a revised view of the controversies based on an analysis of the underlying intellectual struggle to come to terms with Darwin The middle section of the book distinguishes the Darwinism of Darwin himself amid the main currents of post Darwinian evolutionary thought and is followed by chapters which examine the responses to Darwin of twenty eight Christian controversialists tracing the philosophical and theological lineage of their views The paradox that emerges that Darwin s theory was accepted in substance only by those whose theology was distinctly orthodox theology and of other evolutionary theories with liberal and
