Supporting safety of journalists in Kenya Nyabuga, George, 2016-07-11 Impact of Global University Ranking Systems on Developing Countries Onyancha, Omwoyo Bosire, Tella, Adeyinka, 2023-06-01 The emotive discourses on the subject of university rankings are directly linked to the effect of such rankings on the performance of universities throughout the world. It has been observed that the top ranked universities attract major financial commitments from the industry, the best students, quality researchers and a wide range of other quality endowments such as equipment, libraries and laboratories. It is not surprising that the ranking of universities has gained popularity and become a significant factor shaping not only the reputation of universities but also the performance of said institutions around the world, including the developing countries. Impact of Global University Ranking Systems on Developing Countries presents a collection of perspectives from scholars and other stakeholders on the impact of the global ranking systems on developing countries. The book is an additional resource for discussion and discourse as far as the global university ranking systems are concerned and opens new frontiers for further research. Covering key topics such as assessment, ethics and academic freedom, this premier reference source is ideal for administrators, policymakers, researchers, scholars, academicians, practitioners, instructors and students.

Regionalization of African Higher Education Jane Knight, Emnet Tadesse Woldegiorgis, 2017-04-17 Growth in the scope, scale and importance of higher education regionalization should not be underestimated or ignored. Africa, like Asia, Europe and Latin America, is promoting deeper cooperation among higher education bodies and institutions across the continent and focusing more attention on Pan African and sub regional harmonization of policies and programmes. This is the first book which brings together diverse scholars and policy experts to examine key aspects and challenges of African higher education regionalization. Chapters examine the progress and prospects of core regionalization issues and strategies such as academic mobility, quality assurance, recognition of qualifications, research centres and networks, curriculum and competencies and regional academic programmes. Other chapters discuss important themes such as the relationship between regionalization, internationalization and Africanization, historical antecedents and perspectives, an analytical model to understand functional, organizational and political approaches to Africa's higher education regionalization and the influence of the Bologna process on the African Union's Strategy for the Harmonization of Higher Education Programmes. Together, these chapters provide a comprehensive overview of efforts by the African Union, sub regional higher education associations such as IUCEA, SARUA and CAMES, Pan African organizations and actors, key research networks and centres of excellence and the involvement or dependence on external actors and funders, especially from Europe. Fundamentally, the book asks the question whether higher education regionalization in Africa is more rhetoric than reality. It discusses the progress to date on specific themes, identifies historical, political, sustainability and funding challenges and concludes that while the impacts of regionalization efforts have not been fully realized, there is cautious optimism for the future. Higher Education for and beyond the Sustainable
