

Lesson 2: Decoding the Dream of the Story

Conferences:

1. Have students share their recollections for the year (homework from last night). Use this conversation to explain that your aim is to teach them how to write powerful true stories.
2. "You already know some strategies for generating ideas for your writing. Another strategy is that you can think about a place that matters to you and list small moments that occurred at that place." Demonstrate jotting down a place that matters to you, and story ideas off of it. Then leave students do the same work.

Teaching Point: "Writers of stories climb inside the story, walking in the shoes of the character, experiencing the story as it unfolds and putting that onto the page so readers can experience it too."

Teaching:

1. "If you let your readers see, hear, and feel all of the details, they won't see the woods, they will instead be inside your story. To do this, you need to go back to the start of your story and step inside it, writing and imagining with it as you get lost in the story."
2. "Watch me do this as I tell my story. How did it start? Oh yes, I remember, I was taking India out for a walk. Well, let me see the precise details... I was standing in the field. It was cold that day and the wind was whipping all around me and my hair was blowing everywhere." Show students the paragraph you wrote.

Active Engagement: Have students try this work by picking one of their stories to write by imagining the moment, what they were doing, what they saw, heard, etc. Have them story-tell it to a partner.

Link: "Today as you read a page of your writing, make sure that we see the world of the story."

Reveal the secret: Techniques for Making the World of Narrative Writing

Mid-Workshop: "Another way that you can brainstorm story ideas is by writing about times when you had strong feelings. Start by jotting down a feeling (worry, hope, embarrassment) and think about times you felt that way." Show students an example and then update the chart.

Share: "When I point to you, I want you to read aloud a key concept from your writing."

Homework: "Tonight, continue to collect entries in your notebook. When there is an interaction between family members, notice how people talk, move and act. Think about the meaning and significance behind small things, and see if you can let your observations impact your writing.

(Reveal this bullet on the chart.)
