Office of Education,1912 The Status of Soviet Civil Science Craig Sinclair,2012-12-06 This volume represents one outcome of the initiatives taken from time to time by the NATO Science Committee to add to the work of supporting civil science within the Alliance by mounting open meetings or other projects dealing with some topical aspect of science and technology policy Past examples have included the 20th anniversary meeting of the establishment of the Science Committee in 1978 which made a review of the achievements of the various programmes. It proved to be a valuable opportunity to take stock of the impact of science and technology on Western societies and was a particularly useful occasion for a critical analysis of the changing nature and social role of science and technology. In contrast the Science Committee Conferences in 1973 and 1976 on the Technology of Efficient Energy Utilization and on Thermal Energy Storage were responses of the Committee to specific technological problems engendered by the then acute energy supply position. A similar technologically oriented study was made in 1975 of the Rational Use of Potentially Scarce Metals. These initiatives were the counterpoint to the bulk of the continuing work of the Committee in funding scientific mobility in the Alliance as support to civil science. This latter is done competitively in response to unsolicited applications. The Committee hopes to demonstrate by its special activities its flexibility and responsiveness to the evolving activities, technologists and policy makers.
